WALL STREET STOCKS MOVE FORWARD ON BROAD FRONT

Steady Absorption of Such Issues as U. S. Steel, American Can and Leading Coppers Factor.

Utilities, Then Rails, Lead in Advances

Brokers' Loans Show Decrease of $135,000,000 for Week — Rediscount Rate Unchanged.

NEW YORK, April 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The stock market today was characterized by a broad front advance, with utilities, then rails, leading in gains.

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve bank for the week ending April 10 were $1,350,000,000, a decrease of $135,000,000 from the previous week.

Oil Don't Get Far. The Atlantic Refining Co. announced an increase in gasoline prices in its territory today, and similar advances are expected in other sections as gasoline consumption enters the period of seasonal expansion.

Revival of activity and strength in the public utility shares was one of the features of the day's market. Except for the excellent earnings statements being reported by the leading companies, there was nothing in the day's news to explain the sudden uprush in these issues.

Utilities Advance. American and Foreign Power up 8 points and the second preferred 5 1/2. Gains of 2 to 3 1/2 points were recorded by at least a dozen others including Public Service of New Jersey, National Power and Light, Standard Gas and Electric, Electric Power and Light, American Waterworks, Consolidated Gas and Louisville Gas and Electric, International Telephone, which broke nearly 3 points in the early trading, recovered its loss and moved up more than 2 points above last night's close, at the close American and foreign power common showed a net gain of 5 points.

Non-ferrous metal shares also received good support. There has been the recent liquidation in that group on anticipated downward adjustment of raw metal prices. Joseph Lead, Anaconda, Copper, Grover, Kennecott, Andes, Cerro de Pasco and International Nickel all ranged up 1 1/2 to 3 1/2 points, closing 1/4 to 2 1/2 points net higher.

St. Paul and Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Yellow Truck and Warehouse, and American Lumber Car Corporation moved into new high ground for the year.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 31, 32 and 33.

POLICE CAPTAIN ACCUSED AS AID OF LIQUOR RUNNERS

SEIZURE BY U. S. AGENTS BLOCKED

Newspaper Prints Photograph of Speedboats Landing Contraband Near Border Patrol Office.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, Mich., April 11.—Capt. Joseph A. Burkheiser, harbor master and commanding officer of the Belle Isle Police Station, was suspended today in what was termed by Police Commissioner William P. Rutledge as "the worst scandal in the history of the Detroit Police Department."

Charges against Burkheiser include co-operation with liquor runners in transporting liquor from Canada to the United States by seizing boats loaded with liquor and conveying them to American waters, thus preventing Federal agents from seizing them.

"That's not a tenth of the story," Rutledge declared.

Belle Isle, which is city-owned, is in the Detroit River. It contains park recreational facilities, a zoo and similar city supervised enterprises.

The Detroit News today says liquor runners' speed boats capable of 40 to 50 miles an hour, known as "run rings around" United States customs border patrol boats and land Canadian liquor at docks within a few blocks of the Detroit City Hall.

The News publishes an eight-column picture taken at 2:25 o'clock this morning, showing liquor runners landing a cargo of liquor at the foot of Ropelle street, four blocks west of the customs border patrol headquarters.

Two minutes is all the time required to cross the river in the speedy boats and landing and loading the light cargo into automobiles takes only 30 seconds, the News says.

Other witnesses who will follow include Comptroller Nolte, who challenged estimates made by the Detroit News, and Arthur C. Meyers, engineer for Comptroller Nolte; Charles Spencer, former chief construction inspector under George K. Heath, who succeeded Toensfeldt when the latter resigned as Chief Electrical Engineer, and Reginald Hopkins, a former inspector under Heath.

Rogers interviewed Ryckoff last Jan. 17 in Chicago, reporting that Ryckoff told him he had paid money to the "City Hall crowd" in St. Louis. Toensfeldt and Rogers talked to Ryckoff Feb. 2 at Miami Beach, Fla., where the contractor amplified his story of what he did in St. Louis to enable him to make "short cuts" on the contract without interference by Heath's inspectors.

Toensfeldt also had previous conversations with Ryckoff concerning money paid in St. Louis, of which he will tell the grand jury.

Comptroller's Check of Work. Comptroller Nolte had a conference with Ryckoff in the Comptroller's office early in 1927, when Nolte was holding up the estimates on Ryckoff's contract, sent to the Comptroller's office for payment by Director of Public Utilities Pritchard, who approved the estimate on which also was approved by Pritchard.

Nolte also has the official records of a check he has made of an overcharge for cable laid by the contractor, the estimate on which also was approved by Pritchard.

GRAND JURY HEARS FIRST WITNESS IN RYCKOFF INQUIRY

Begins Investigation of $175,000 Overpayment for Repaving on Street Lighting Contract.

RALF TOENSFELDT GIVES TESTIMONY

Nolte, Comptroller's Engineer A. C. Meyers and Former Inspector Spencer Also to Be Called.

The grand jury today began its inquiry into the electric street lighting contract in districts B, C and D, executed by A. M. Ryckoff, Chicago contractor, who was overpaid not less than $175,000 for brick repaving not laid, as was disclosed in a survey made for the Post-Dispatch and submitted to Mayor Miller, who called for the grand jury investigation.

A survey of Ryckoff's work, ordered by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, composed of Mayor Miller, Comptroller Nolte and President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, is being made with a view of establishing grounds for recovering by civil suit for the city overpayments made to the contractor.

The first witnesses called by the grand jury were John T. Rogers, Post-Dispatch reporter, and Ralf Toensfeldt, civil engineer and former Chief Electrical Engineer for the city, who drew the original plans and specifications for the Ryckoff contract.

Nolte to Testify. Other witnesses who will follow include Comptroller Nolte, who challenged estimates made by the Detroit News, and Arthur C. Meyers, engineer for Comptroller Nolte; Charles Spencer, former chief construction inspector under George K. Heath, who succeeded Toensfeldt when the latter resigned as Chief Electrical Engineer, and Reginald Hopkins, a former inspector under Heath.

HOME BREW TAX OK'D; HOUSE KILLS DRY REFERENDUM

Measure Passed for Levy of Five Cents a Pound on Malt Expected to Raise $1,000,000 a Year.

DRY DEFATE PLAN FOR LIQUOR POLL

Resolution Offered by St. Louisan Postponed Indefinitely Which Ends It for This Legislature.

By ROYCE F. CARROLL, Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 11.—The Elmer-Snyder bill proposing a tax of 5 cents a pound on all malt sold in Missouri, which was defeated by the House Tuesday, was revived yesterday afternoon on reconsideration of the vote by which it was defeated, and passed by a vote of 59 to 37.

Proponents of the tax estimate it would yield from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 a year in revenue. Representative Elmer of Dent County, one of the co-authors, moved the reconsideration of the bill after proponents had lined up enough votes to pass it.

Assailed as Anti-Dry Move. A joint and concurrent resolution introduced in the House today by Representative Elmer of Dent County, seeking a referendum in Missouri on prohibition, remained alive just long enough for dry members of the House to put a motion to postpone the resolution indefinitely and to take a roll call. The motion carried by a vote of 96 to 22, and the resolution cannot again be considered this session of the Legislature.

Due to protests by Hader that Speaker Parker had ignored his demand for calling of the absentees after the first roll call was taken, Parker reopened the vote more than an hour after it had been announced, to call the absentees, despite the fact parliamentarians of the House pointed out this was an irregular proceeding.

Under the House rules, once a vote is announced after a roll call, there can be no further voting and the record cannot be changed, except on a showing of error and House consent to expunging the record.

Elms picked up a few votes on this post-mortem proceeding, and the final roll call, although irregular, showed 101 votes to postpone the resolution, 29 against postponement, and 29 absent.

Attack on Brew Measure. The brew malt bill was attacked as a move to break down prohibition by granting tacit recognition of the use of brew malt for the manufacture of home brew. Supporters of the bill declared the tax was a proper levy upon a commercial product that was legally manufactured and sold, and that it would not be the fault of the State, or any recognition of illegal practices if purchasers of the malt later used it illegally.

Representative Elms of St. Louis County declared he was for the bill because it "would bring in a great deal of revenue and we as Republicans, need that revenue to pay off our boys."

"I am for the bill for the same reason the opponents are against it," Elms said. "If passage of the bill will be a tacit approval of the manufacture of home brew, I feel it might be an opening wedge for the manufacture of other more invigorating beverages."

"I always have regarded beer as plebeian," Elms continued, "and about the only pleasure I obtained from it was blowing off the foam. But there are many who like it. If a tacit recognition of the manufacture of home brew would result from this bill, then the next step would be recognition of the manufacture of wine, and then, sir, Mr. Speaker, the gentlemen who love the succulent highball would have their day in court."

The Rev. J. F. Lawson, Representative from Ozark County, voted for the bill, although he opposed it when it was up for engrossment in the House. He had reconsidered

LOUISIANA HOUSE VOTES TO IMPEACH LONG FOR BRIBERY

Governor Formally Charged With Offering Legislator Remunerative Job for Support.

SENATE TO TAKE UP ACTION TOMORROW

Charges Against State Executive Will Be Tried After Lower Chamber Has Filed All of Them.

By the Associated Press. BATON ROUGE, La., April 11.—The Louisiana House of Representatives today voted impeachment on charges of bribery against Gov. Huey P. Long. The vote was 56 to 40.

Specifically, the charge is that the Governor offered Representative J. V. Sanders Jr. of Baton Rouge made a plea for the members to vote not according to sympathies, but evidence, declaring: "Here is a direct charge made by Mr. Gueymard that the Governor attempted to bribe him. And remember, Mr. Gueymard has been an ardent supporter of the administration."

He added that Lelaune, too, had been a "faithful supporter of the administration."

The Senate, sitting as a high court of impeachment, convened at noon and immediately heard its committee report on rules of procedure. Under the rules as presented, no charge will be tried until the House has filed all charges, with the provision that if the lower body has not completed its work by April 22 the Senate would fix a date of hearing on any articles adopted.

The rules would further provide, however, that the Court would not set the date of trial at a time to give the Governor less than 15 days to prepare an answer and a plea that he did not do this with felonious and fraudulent intent, as charged.

At this point, the defense raises the distinction between the International Life Insurance Co. and the International Co., the latter a holding corporation which held about 23,000 shares of the authorized issue of 27,500 shares of the insurance company's stock.

Fraudulent Intent Denied. Toombs' counsel promised to show that the International Co., on Jan. 5, 1928, transferred to Toombs 15,000 shares of the insurance company's stock. Within a few days thereafter, Toombs borrowed $500,000 from the Great Southern Insurance Co. of Texas. At that time, Toombs' counsel said, Toombs could not get his 15,000 shares of stock, because of complications about a safe deposit box. He therefore, it is admitted, caused an over-issue of 3000 shares of unauthorized stock of the life insurance company, and sent the 3000 over-issued shares to Texas as collateral for his loan. But soon afterward, the defense promised to show, he got possession of his 15,000 shares, and he then called in the over-issued stock and replaced it with valid stock from his own holdings.

"We think the jury is entitled to know these facts," said Attorney Woods, arguing a point of evidence which had caused Judge Hartmann to excuse the jury temporarily. "If, after hearing these facts, the jury thinks that Toombs acted with felonious intent, of course, it can convict him. If this evidence is excluded the defense can present no case."

Judge Hartmann ruled that the transactions between Toombs and the International Co. were not fraudulent.

TOOMBS TO ADMIT STOCK OVERISSUE, BUT DENY FRAUD

Defense Outlined at Trial of International Life Insurance Co. President Involving Removal of $3,500,000.

The defense of Roy C. Toombs, president of the defunct International Life Insurance Co., to the charge of procuring false certificates of the company's stock, was outlined today by Judge Hartmann, in the jury's absence, when the prosecution was about half through with its testimony. This is the first trial of Toombs, under indictment in four jurisdictions for the manipulations by which he removed $3,500,000 of the insurance company's assets, throwing it into bankruptcy.

Toombs' defense, as set forth by his chief counsel, State Senator Roy C. Woods of Chicago, is an admission that, as charged, he caused the issuance of three certificates for 3000 shares each of unauthorized, or over-issued, stock of the insurance company; but a plea that he did not do this with felonious and fraudulent intent, as charged.

At this point, the defense raises the distinction between the International Life Insurance Co. and the International Co., the latter a holding corporation which held about 23,000 shares of the authorized issue of 27,500 shares of the insurance company's stock.

Fraudulent Intent Denied. Toombs' counsel promised to show that the International Co., on Jan. 5, 1928, transferred to Toombs 15,000 shares of the insurance company's stock. HIGH WATER AND BLOCKED ROADS DELAY RESCUE WORK

Many Persons Reported Missing, but Property Damage Is Small—Swift on Is Hardest Hit.

EIGHT-MILE PATH SWEEPED BY STORM

Doctors and Nurses Hasten to Devastated District in Northeast Part of State to Aid Victims.

By the Associated Press. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 11.—Forty-three persons were killed and more than 100 were injured by a tornado that swept through sections of Northeast Arkansas last night. Property damaged could not be estimated. Some of the more inaccessible regions of the storm district had not been reached by relief workers.

The bodies were being placed in temporary incinerators at Swift, nearest the storm center, and other towns. The injured were being taken to hospitals at Newport and to private homes where emergency treatment was given.

The rescuers who worked under the light of automobile headlights all night to recover the dead and injured expected to find many more bodies under the debris in the isolated farm settlements and houses which had roads made it difficult to reach.

Houses Are Carried Away. A wide area of almost complete waste was left by the tornado in the Swift section, where the greatest damage resulted. Houses were carried for long distances, and in one instance one house was dropped in the middle of a creek with three of a family of five dead.

The known dead were listed as follows: Twenty-four in the Swift area, eight at Parkin, three at Gulton, six at Lorado and two at Wynne, where two children also were missing.

The number of injured was so great that no accurate estimates could be obtained. Meanwhile the Red Cross and other relief agencies went forward with their work of caring for the dead and injured. Several Arkansas National Guard planes were dispatched to the scene from Little Rock with medical supplies. Gov. Harvey Farnell also sent his private secretary, Guy Freeling, and Capt. Lee V. Casey of the Adjutant-General's staff, to survey the area with a view of recommending relief measures to be undertaken by the State.

Guardsmen Ready to Go. National Guardsmen had not been requested to aid in the relief work today, but all were notified to hold themselves in readiness to leave on a moment's notice for the storm area.

Missouri Pacific Railroad officers offered to send special trains into the section, and promised the Governor any other aid possible. The list of dead included the following:

The dead in the Swift community included: Charles de Fries, 45 years old, his daughter, Grace, 45 Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bullard and their daughter, Leona; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Butler and their daughter, Zella; 9; Mrs. Ed Riley and three children, Buster, Ruth and an infant; Mrs. Esther Riley, mother-in-law of Mrs. Ed Riley; Howard Wills, 6; Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Nicholson; Mrs. A. J. Rowlett; John Loy; Mrs. Russell Long and daughter, Viney, 17, and L. E. Hudgens.

The dead at Gulton: Miss Thelma Pierce, 30; Miss Thana Tilton, Claude Campbell and a mother and child.

Fifty persons, made homeless by the storm, sought shelter in a large cave near Gulton. Efforts to obtain food, tents and blankets for them were being made today.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT SLATED TO DIRECT PROHIBITION UNIT

Attorney-General Mitchell Is Hopeful of Transfer of Department at Special Session.

CHANGE TO PROVIDE MONEY AND MEN

These Are Principal Requirements, According to Survey of District Attorneys' Offices.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Attorney-General Mitchell is hopeful that Congress at its special session beginning Monday will enact the necessary legislation for the transfer of the Prohibition Enforcement Unit from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice.

Such a transfer was proposed by President Hoover in his inaugural address as the first step in a program of better general law enforcement and it is now determined that legislation is necessary for its accomplishment since enforcement powers were vested in the Treasury by an act of Congress. Most details of the transfer have been worked out with the general plan now before the President. Enforcement would be under an assistant attorney-general, probably Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, who has charge of enforcement of the Prohibition, Internal Revenue, Narcotic and Customs laws.

Some readjustments of the Department of Justice would be necessary by reason of the absorption of such a huge arm of the Federal Government and ultimately the appointment of an additional assistant attorney-general would be necessary, in the view of those who have given the subject intensive study.

Would Unite Two Forces. At the outset, however, the work would be carried on with the present Department of Justice force, augmented of course by the existing machinery of the Treasury which would be taken over. It is the expectation that after the machinery gets fully in motion, an assistant attorney-general will devote full time to the prohibition work with the other duties now discharged by that official placed in the hands of a newly created assistant.

Extra Funds Needed. In the view of the attorney-general, the early transfer of the prohibition unit to the Justice Department would facilitate the work of strengthening the department's enforcement machinery over the country, as it would supply additional funds and personnel.

A nationwide survey of the offices of Federal District Attorneys now under way has shown need for such strengthening in a number of places. Failures at adequate enforcement have been found to be due in many cases to a lack of assistants and funds for the District Attorneys.

At present the Department of Justice is without the necessary appropriations to give the additional assistance to the District Attorneys' offices that is regarded as necessary and unless there is an early transfer of the prohibition unit appropriations by Congress must be awaited.

Where the surveys have indicated a lack of energy on the part of the District Attorneys, some of them have been called to Washington for conferences with a view to increasing their enthusiasm in their work. It was stated today that this method had brought results.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Howard Sutherland will continue as Allen Property Custodian under the Hoover administration, it is announced today.

Gann Takes a Back Seat As Wife Goes to Front

She Is Second Lady of the Land, But Husband Is Mere 'Unofficial Person' at Washington Dinners.

By PAUL T. ANDERSON.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—When Mrs. Edward E. Gann attends official dinners in Washington hereafter, she will sit above the wives of Ambassadors, Senators and Justices of the Supreme Court, but Mr. Edward E. Gann, if invited at all, will sit wherever he can find a vacant seat. Such is the vast social gulf which stretches between the sister of the Vice President and the husband of the sister of the Vice President.

Diligent inquiry by the correspondent disclosed today that there is no possibility that this condition will be altered. All the prestige of Vice President Curtis and all the terror inspired by the name of the Kaw tribe, are insufficient to produce a relaxation of the laws of official etiquette that would benefit Mr. Gann. Under the dispensation worked out through the combined efforts of foreign and domestic diplomats, Mrs. Gann becomes the second lady of the Capital, but Mr. Gann remains a mere "unofficial person."

Where MacGregor sits there is the head of the table, ran the proud boast of a Highland clan. It is different in this case. Whenever Mr. Gann sits will be the foot of the table. A Third Assistant Postmaster outranks him. Nobody with a vestige of an official title can sit below Mr. Gann.

It Worries Senator Norris

During the controversy which has raged over the status of Mrs. Gann as the "official hostess" of Vice President Curtis, there has been ample evidence of a growing concern over the status of Mr. Gann. It has been manifest not only in Washington, but in the country at large. The question of whether Mr. Gann would sit at the first or second table, or whether he would be given a platter in the pantry, has threatened to eclipse the prime question of where Mrs. Gann would sit.

Senator Norris, who took a hand in the controversy last Saturday by urging Secretary of State Stimson to decide at once where Mrs. Gann was to sit, or else refer the question to the World Court for settlement, declared today that he was not satisfied with the decision, which allotted to Mrs. Gann the rank of the Vice President's wife.

"From the very outset my sympathies have been peculiarly with Mr. Gann," he said. "I had an impression all along that Mrs. Gann would not get what she wanted. I don't know why I felt that way, but I did. Call it intuition. Events have demonstrated that my impression was correct. As I interpret the settlement worked out by Secretary Stimson and the diplomatic corps, Mr. Gann is left wholly unprotected for, which is exactly what I feared. I refuse to abandon him in this crisis. I do not intend to let this matter rest until I am assured that he will have at least a snack wherever he goes."

Stimson's Adroitness Resented. As was expected, the diplomatic corps formally decided yesterday to grant Mrs. Gann the ranking accorded wives of Vice Presidents, but the members took occasion to register their annoyance over the adroit fashion in which the buck had been passed to them by Secretary Stimson. It was obvious they felt that he should have shouldered the burden himself.

In a memorandum to Stimson by Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador and dean of the corps, two pointed allusions were made to the State Department's failure to give a decision on the question, and it was made plain that the decision of the corps affected only functions given by its own members. Moreover, it was intimated that the decision in Mrs. Gann's favor was in response to a hint from Stimson that he desired such a decision.

"On behalf of my colleagues of the diplomatic corps and myself," wrote Sir Esme, "I have to thank you for the courteous letter in reply to the memorandum which I handed to you yesterday. I gathered from our conversation of yesterday that there exists no United States authority at present which can determine questions of precedence, and it appears from your letter that members of the diplomatic corps are expected to decide such matters for themselves in their own houses at their own discretion. You add that any courtesy which they may choose to show to the Vice President and to Mrs. Gann will be most agreeable to you."

"Provisional Arrangement." In these circumstances, my colleagues and I desire, as already stated, of showing all possible courtesy to the Vice President, will with great pleasure accord to his sister, Mrs. Gann, at all official and ceremonious diplomatic entertainments until we can obtain some definite ruling on this point from a constituted American authority, the precedence due to the wife of a Vice President of the United States.

"In view of the fact, however, that this is not altogether in accordance with the custom which has prevailed during recent years, as you have yourself pointed out in your letter of yesterday to the Vice President, my colleagues and I wish to add that this provisional arrangement must be considered as being without prejudice to any final arrangement. We all sincerely hope that this solution will meet with general approval."

The veteran Nebraska insurgent is likely to discover that bucking the decrees of official etiquette is a tougher proposition than bucking the power trust in the Senate. After a 10-year fight, he saved Muscle Shoals for the nation, but not in a hundred years is it likely that he would be able to move Mr. Gann two seats nearer the head of the table.

President Hoover had forbidden the State Department to act as a social secretary hereafter, but the correspondent was able to learn today that the highest possible authority that nothing short of a social revolution would be sufficient to give Mr. Gann any ranking in official society as long as he remains simply the Vice President's sister's husband.

From other sources, however, it was ascertained that Mr. Gann is not ambitious, and would really prefer not to be invited to official dinners. Some husbands might relish a seating arrangement whereby their wives could only see them with a telescope, and could only communicate with them by sending a telegram, but Mr. Gann is a trifle sensitive.

The prospect of attending functions where it would be necessary for his wife to say to the doorman: "Let this gentleman in—he is my husband," apparently does not appeal to him, and he has intimated a content to keep the home fires burning. His experiences at the few formal occasions which he has already attended have confirmed him in this choice.

Tonight Is the Night. Mrs. Gann will have an opportunity for her new social plumage, Ambassador Davila of Chile, will be host at dinner to 200 guests, and at the head of the list will be the names "Mr. and Mrs. E. Gann." Whether the list will conclude "and Mr. Edward E. Gann," could not be learned today, either at the Chilean Embassy or at Mr. Gann's office.

At the Mayflower Hotel, where Mr. Gann has a home with the Vice President and Mrs. Gann, the various butlers who answered the telephone haughtily suggested that the discussion of such subjects be learned today, either at the Chilean Embassy or at Mr. Gann's office.

his home in the same village was destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lucas were crushed to death in the collapse of their home five miles south of Wynne. Their two small children, asleep in the house, are thought to have perished also, but their bodies had not been found today.

Rescue work was hampered by the rain-soaked soil, by debris which blocked the roads and by swollen streams. Rescue parties left Newport, Swift and Batesville early today in trucks and ambulances.

Thirty-two caskets were sent by train from Little Rock today, together with stretchers and first aid supplies and physicians and nurses.

A vacant store building at Swift was converted into a temporary morgue where bodies were placed, while attention was given the injured, most of whom were taken to hospitals in nearby places.

Families Crushed to Death. All the dead and injured in the Swift section where the storm struck at 6 o'clock, were farmers and their families. Several large families were crushed to death under the debris of their homes.

The disaster also affected a large area within a radius of 50 miles of Swift, rising out of the Southwest about two miles from there.

It moved slowly along a path some 200 yards wide over a zigzag course for a distance of about eight miles, observers said.

The heaviest damage was along the Fossom-Trot-Sneed road leading to Albia, six miles north of Swift.

For eight miles the giant cloud roared its way in a straight line along the highway, crumbling in its path some 25 dwellings on either side of the road. Hardly a family along the way escaped without the loss of one or more lives.

A trail of dead livestock was left by the storm. Hens and geese were found without a feather after being blown about by the tornado.

T. C. Bullard, his wife and daughter, Lena, 19, who were killed, were found in the ruins of their home in the middle of Village Creek, a quarter of a mile from their farm. A 14-year-old son, one of two survivors of the family, said the house was blown over the tree tops into the creek. His brother survived but was injured.

Telephone Lines Between St. Louis and Little Rock Out of Service.

Long-distance telephone lines between Little Rock and St. Louis, over which calls to many points in the South are routed, were put out of service by the tornado shortly before 6 o'clock last night. Thirty-five circuits were broken when 10 poles were blown down near Walnut Ridge, Ark. Telephone calls to Little Rock and points south were routed through Memphis but smaller communities were cut off.

All lines are expected to be back in service by 6 o'clock tonight. It was announced at the local office of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

SIX RED CROSS RELIEF WORKERS SENT TO ARKANSAS

Alfred Evans, Director, Proceeds Party That Leaves for Newport After Storm.

Five additional disaster relief workers were sent to Newport, Ark., this morning by the Midwestern branch headquarters here of the American Red Cross to aid in disaster relief work in the tornado swept region of that State. At the same time the local branch was hastily completing plans to secure a relief fund of $100,000 in Red Cross work in the Wisconsin and Minnesota areas hit by tornadoes.

Alfred Evans, relief director for the Midwestern district, left earlier in the day for Newport, Ark. His five assistants, all experienced in disaster relief, are Helen Rickard, Henrietta Wilkins, Edna Gowdy, Mildred Stocking and Walter Over. An appeal was sent to the Governor of Arkansas for executive assistance in rushing supplies into the stricken area of that State.

Latest figures compiled by the Red Cross in the Wisconsin and Minnesota districts show 20 storm dead and 94 seriously injured. Property damage was reported to be 10 homes destroyed, 173 homes partly destroyed, 220 buildings demolished and 140 other buildings badly damaged.

Counsel of New York Market Answers Congressman's Demand for Reimbursement of Loss.

SAYS NO LAW BARS
TRADING IN SHARES

Officers Express Surprise Over Request of Missourian, Who Asserts Investment Was Unprofitable.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Congressman L. C. Dyer of St. Louis, who sold Hiram Walker, Inc., stock on learning the company was a distillery, has demanded that the Curb Exchange reimburse him for his losses.

Dyer, a Republican and anti-prohibitionist, in a letter to the exchange officials, contended it had no right to sell the stocks of companies the products of which are contraband in this country.

While curb officials admitted receipt of the letter, they declined to make a public and expressed considerable surprise over Dyer's demand. William A. Lockwood, counsel for the Exchange, said although the question had never been brought up before, he had no doubt the exchange was privileged to permit dealing in such stocks.

"If the sale of foreign liquor stocks is illegal," he said, "the Curb Exchange would be glad to be so informed, and would, of course, be the first to take action. But so far as I know there is nothing in the Volstead act or any other law which prohibits Americans from investing in foreign stocks."

Stock of the National Distillers Products Corporation is listed on the New York Exchange.

Dyer is the ranking Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee and has voted against all prohibition bills.

Hundreds of thousands of shares of Hiram Walker have been sold on the Curb. Hiram Walker, Inc., a Canadian corporation, makes type whisky at Walkerville, Ont., across the Detroit River from Detroit. Its stock has been on the curb more than a year. Several weeks ago it was up to 95%, then dropped to 65%. There has been talk of a merger.

Lockwood said that while advertisement of liquor in American publications was prohibited by law, securities were not liquor products, and the curb did not advertise.

DYER MAINTAINS LISTING IS ILLEGAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Congressman L. C. Dyer (Rep.), of St. Louis, who flatly denied yesterday that he knew anything about the matter, today admitted he had protested to the New York Curb Market Association concerning his speculation losses in Hiram Walker Distillery stock. He said he also had protested to the broker who sold him the securities.

Commenting today on the protest, Dyer said he was so much concerned with his losses as he was in the property of the Curb Exchange listing a security of a company manufacturing liquor, now contraband in the United States.

"I want to raise the question of the legality of listing distillery stocks on the American exchanges, which I intend to investigate further," Dyer said.

"I bought Hiram Walker as legitimate investment, just as I have bought other securities in the past. A friend of mine in a broker's office telephoned me one day, and recommended that I buy Hiram Walker. I had confidence in his financial judgment and told him to buy some for me. I had no idea at the time that it was a distillery security, and when I subsequently learned that it was Canadian company manufacturing liquor, I was astounded."

"The stock was not listed as Hiram Walker Distillery, merely as Hiram Walker. My loss was small, not enough to worry about. The spirit of the prohibition law is violated by the listing of these securities. In my opinion, the Curb Exchange contributes to the violation as do the newspapers which advertise this security. The prohibition law specifically provides against advertising of liquor."

The last leg of the trip, from Kansas City to St. Louis, was made in an hour and 45 minutes, or at a speed of about 150 miles an hour. The new ship has space for 600 pounds of mail behind the engine and for four passengers in a cabin behind the mail compartment. The pilot sits behind the cabin, in an exposed cockpit. TOOMBS TO ADMIT STOCK OVERISSUE,

The International (holding) Company might be shown. This was considered an important point gained by the defense.

Testimony on Overissue.

At the time of this ruling, W. G. Darst, secretary of the International Life Insurance Co., was being questioned. Testimony previously given by Darst and, yesterday afternoon, by E. P. Greenwood, president of the Great Southern Insurance Co. of Texas, was:

That three certificates of the company's stock, for 2000 shares each, were issued by Darst at Toombs' order Jan. 17, 1928, at a time when all the authorized capital stock of the company, 27,500 shares, was already outstanding.

That Toombs sent the three certificates to Greenwood as security for a loan of $500,000, which Toombs personally made to the Great Southern Insurance Co.

That the insurance company's stock ledger, which was a card index of the company's stockholders, did not show a record of the three certificates issued to Toombs, as shown by the company's board of directors, as shown by its minute book, did not at any time authorize the issuance of this stock to Toombs; and that no other body besides the board of directors of the International Life Insurance Co. had the right to authorize issuance of that company's stock.

The last statement was struck from the testimony, on objections of the defense. Its purpose was to meet the defense plea as to the action of the International Co., the holding company.

After the court's ruling admitting questions as to the holding company's transactions with Toombs, in the life insurance company's stock, Circuit Attorney Miller and his first assistant, Forrest H. Ferris, consulted with Thomas C. Hennings Jr., the assistant in active charge of the State's case.

Darst, cross-examined further by the defense, said he was vice president and a director of the holding corporation; that its own capital stock was in 2000 shares, by whom held he did not know; that it held a majority of the insurance company's stock.

Darst Erased Toombs' Name.

He told of the adoption of a resolution by the holding company, that 15,824 shares of International Life Insurance Co. stock be sold to Toombs at $50 a share, delivery to be in blocks as needed by Toombs, and payment to be in certain township and city bonds. Pending delivery of the bonds, interim certificates of not more than 20 days' duration were to be accepted.

The stock, Darst said, was held in safe deposit boxes, 6900 shares at the Liberty Central Trust Co. and 2000 shares at the First National Bank. Darst said that David W. Hill, vice president of the holding company, had one of two keys to each of the boxes. Hill refused, Darst said, to open the box, and it was impossible at that time for Toombs to get the stock out. When the overissue certificates were made out, Darst said, Toombs said he would get the valid stock and replace the overissue shares. Darst said the overissue certificates were returned and canceled by him in June. He did not learn the reason for Hill's refusal.

Darst said he reattached the canceled overissue certificates to the stubs in the stockbook, and marked them "canceled—not used." He said he erased Toombs' name from the back, where it had been written in indorsement. He did this, he said, "because I knew it was an overissue, and that the insurance examiners might ask about it."

Denies Toombs' Claim.

J. D. McGee, a state insurance examiner, and L. F. Buhle, formerly assistant to Secretary Darst, gave documentary and corroborative testimony. William F. Granger, vice president of the defunct

11 DOWNTOWN BARS
RAIDED BY POLICE

Liquor or Evidence of Liquor Found in Each Place, Officers Report.

Eleven downtown bars were raided yesterday afternoon by police who reported finding liquor in each place or evidence that liquor had been there.

One man was arrested in each, although police had no search warrants. All of the prisoners were booked as "suspected of violating the State home dry law," and all were released on bond.

The raids took place between 4 and 5 o'clock. At 520 Market street, John Lee, the bartender, was arrested after he dumped the contents of a glass into the rinse water when police entered. The raiders took a sample of the water for analysis.

Robert Delaney, proprietor of the bar at 302 Olive street, was taken into custody when the police found a glass of alleged whisky on the drain board behind the bar.

At 1229 Olive street, Joseph Kerns, who said he was a clerk, was arrested. Police said they found a pint of whisky on the drainboard.

John Bartley, proprietor of a bar at 5 North Thirteenth street, was arrested after the police found 12 bottles of home brew and a quart of wine in an icebox. At 1519 Market street, Earl Burnett, bartender, was arrested when he emptied a glass into the rinse water. The police took a sample of the water.

John Davis, proprietor of a bar at 1905 Market street, was arrested after the police found half a pint of whisky in a rear room. At 1301 Market street, Patrick Sheehan, who said he was a clerk, was arrested. The police found a pint of whisky in an icebox.

Tony Kencel, proprietor of a bar at 1101 Chouteau avenue, was taken into custody when the police found a stein of alleged beer on the bar.

At 400 South Second street, Victor Dewandell was held, after six pints of whisky were found, concealed in an outhouse.

John Pollock, proprietor of a bar at 1215 Market street, was arrested when the police found a pint of whisky in an icebox.

At 109 North Broadway, Edward Johnson was taken into custody. The police found a pint of whisky on the drain board.

insurance company, was then called.

Granger testified to signing the three stock certificates which, Darst has related, were an overissue. He said he was a director of the holding company, and he testified that, up to Jan. 17, 1928, the day on which the overissue certificates were made out, none of the stock held by the holding company had been issued to Toombs, nor had any consideration been received from him for the stock. This was designed to combat Toombs' plea that he owned stock for which the overissue certificates were merely a temporary substitute.

David W. Hill, former vice president of the insurance company, next testified. He was named by Toombs' lawyers as having refused to aid Toombs in getting stock bought by him (Toombs) out of safe deposit boxes, thus causing Toombs to get the overissue stock to send to Texas as collateral, Jan. 17, 1928.

Not Asked to Get Stock.

The State made what it considered an important point when Hill testified he was not asked, at any time before last May, to aid in getting the stock out of the safe deposit boxes, and that when he was asked, he did so.

Hill said he went with Toombs and Charles L. Brennaun, secretary of the holding company, to the Liberty Central Trust Co. vaults, and took some 6000 shares in the insurance company stock from a box. They went to the First National Bank vaults, but he did not remember how many shares were there. He said he turned the his action and believed the bill was a proper revenue measure. "We need revenue and this bill will provide some of it," he said.

Vote Taken at Once.

There was no discussion of the Huber dry referendum resolution and several members immediately arose with motions today to head off the resolution.

Representative Whitaker of Hickory County moved the resolution be tabled and Representative Bales of Shannon County offered a substitute motion that the resolution be indefinitely postponed. Several members made their exit, apparently to avoid voting on the question. The roll call resulted in 96 for had motion to postpone, 22 against it and 32 not voting.

Huber called for the absentees and then made a motion that the sergeant-at-arms be directed to go through the corridors and round up members who had not voted. The motion was seconded, but was not put by Parker, who had just instructed the roll call clerk not to record him on the roll call.

Speaker Supports Measure.

Speaker Parker, who had instructed the clerk not to record him on the first roll call today on the Huber measure, supported it on the revised vote.

Sixteen of the 19 St. Louis representatives supported the resolution by voting against the motion to postpone. They were Allen, Applebaum, Parker, Davies, Hehl, Huber, Frank, Miller, Walckhal, Moore, Frank, Moore, Pake, Praechter, Hickits, Schwartz, Williams and Wren. Representatives Bauer, Fisher and McLeod of St. Louis were recorded as absent.

The Representatives outside of St. Louis, who supported the resolution on the revised vote, were Heege and Bamber of St. Louis County, Cross of Cape Girardeau, Hicks, Asotky and Lafferty of Kansas City, Catter of Linn County, McCormick of Platte, Rings of St. Charles, Wisdom of Pike, Sevelly of Osage, Drury of Ste. Genevieve and Elmer of Dent County.

The House Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence is holding a trial on the proposed repeal of the State home dry law, and it probably will be killed in committee. As has been told, pressure has been brought to bear on the committee to hold the bill or kill it to prevent it from reaching the floor. Where a roll call would place the House members definitely on record.

The objections have come from dry members who also have some wet constituents.

keys held by him over to Toombs and Brennaun.

The indictment on which Toombs is on trial relates to the issuance of one of the three overissue stock certificates, No. D 11009. Two similar indictments are based on the two other certificates, D 11010-11. The punishment on conviction would be three to seven years' imprisonment.

HUNG JURY, 11 TO 1,
IN VELASCO TRIAL
IN HOLDUP MURDER

Discharged After Three Hours' Deliberation on Case of Alleged Slayer of Nathan Broddon.

With one member holding out for acquittal after three ballots, the jury in the case of David Velasco, 22 years old, charged with the murder of Nathan Broddon, 65-year-old clothing merchant, was discharged by Circuit Judge Hall at 8:30 o'clock last night, when assured that the dissenting juror had no intention of changing his vote.

The jury had deliberated for three hours. The first ballot showed 9 to 3 for conviction, the second 10 to 2, and the third 11 to 1.

The disagreeing member was James W. Quinn, 4575 Farlin avenue, who said afterward that he did not believe the evidence warranted conviction for first-degree murder.

The Court had instructed the jury to return a verdict for life sentence, hanging or acquittal. Assistant Circuit Attorney Flynn had asked for the death penalty.

Broddon was killed Oct. 31, last, in his clothing store at 2317 Cherokee street, when he resisted a hold-up by three men.

Evidence was purely circumstantial, as none of the witnesses saw the actual shooting. Ben Enert, a son-in-law of Broddon's, who operates a store next door, told of chasing Velasco from the scene, and a policeman who joined in the chase, told of capturing Velasco after a chase of several blocks.

Velasco admitted he was in the neighborhood and ran away afterward, because, he said, he was frightened by the excitement. He said that he was on his way to his home on Blair avenue after spending the night with two companions at their lodgings in Madison. The companions, Mike Aguilar and Joe Martinez, are awaiting trial on the same charge.

Velasco, a Mexican, testified through an interpreter.

Efforts to introduce evidence obtained through the comparison, a microscopic measuring instrument, hit a snag when Judge Hall pointed out that while the evidence of the comparison seemed complete, the State had not been able to show ownership of the pistol which was found outside Broddon's store. Through the comparison it is possible to determine from what pistol a bullet was fired, by the markings on the slug.

Judge Hall's contention that the jury was based on alleged conspiracy. If the jury found Velasco guilty of participation in the crime, even though it did not believe he fired the fatal shot it was instructed to find him guilty of murder.

Prior to trial, Velasco refused to plead guilty and take a life sentence.

DISPUTE OVER $10,000 POLICY LEFT BY 'GOOD TIME CHARLEY'

Mrs. Matlock Wants Insurance, But It Is Claimed for Son of Husband She Killed.

A controversy is in progress over $10,000 insurance on the life of "Good Time Charley" Matlock, automobile salesman, who was shot and killed by his wife, Mrs. Helen Matlock, last Nov. 6 as he walked into a West End apartment where he had established a night club entertainer as another "Mrs. Matlock."

The insurance policy, constituting the bulk of the estate, was made payable to Mrs. Matlock. However, a claim has been made for the $10,000 in behalf of Charley Matlock Jr., 12-year-old son by a previous marriage, on the ground Mrs. Matlock cannot legally become the beneficiary of an insurance policy through killing the insured. To this Mrs. Matlock replies that she was tried for murder and acquitted by a jury.

Clifford R. Cravens, a lawyer, was appointed administrator at Matlock's estate today by Probate Judge Holtcamp at the request of Mrs. Matlock, who waived her own rights in that respect. Another lawyer, C. O. Inman, appeared in behalf of Matlock's son. Inman said a suit probably would be filed to determine to whom the $10,000 should be paid.

CHICAGO CORONER WITHDRAWS FROM MEDICAL SOCIETY

Dr. Herman Bundesen Resigns Because of Ouster of Dr. Louis E. Schmidt for Free Clinic "Ad."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 11.—Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the American Public Health Association, former Chicago health commissioner and now coroner of Cook County, has resigned from the Chicago Medical Society in protest against the ouster of his colleague, Dr. Louis E. Schmidt.

Dr. Bundesen joined Dr. Schmidt in declaring that the cost of being sick is too high, and that "it is the duty of the medical profession to assume the burden of bringing these costs down to a reasonable level."

"I do not say that doctors' fees are high, nor do I understand Dr. Schmidt ever to have taken that position," Dr. Bundesen said in his letter of resignation. "But we all know that the other costs of being sick are overwhelming the families of modest income. The great hosts of the middle classes simply cannot afford to have treatment unless they borrow or beg the money—and Americans do not like to beg."

"The accusers of my distinguished and valued friend and adviser, Dr. Schmidt, took their charges against him on one of his outstanding philanthropies. He was ousted from the Chicago Medical Society because he is president and chief medical officer of the Illinois Social Hygiene League, which is providing treatment free to men and women and children afflicted with social diseases, who have applied to the Public Health Institute but have been unable to pay the institute's fees. For this service the institute, from its funds set aside for charitable purposes, pays the league $12,000 a year."

"I am a trustee of the Illinois Social Hygiene League along with a group of distinguished citizens of our city. I am honored to be so associated."

"I stand with Dr. Schmidt in his struggle. The Chicago Medical Society will stand with him someday. I have known Dr. Schmidt nearly all my life, and never have I known a man more devoted to the great calling of medicine than he. Nor was there ever a man more willing to serve his fellow men. He has reached the greatest heights of fame as a surgeon, but his labors for charity and humanity have enriched his name even more."

Announcement of Dr. Bundesen's resignation followed a statement from the Julius Rosenwald Foundation, endowed to support medical clinics which will furnish treatment to the sick at nearly cost. The statement urged the necessity of co-operation between physicians and the public, if the laboratory and hospital costs of being sick are to be reduced.

"The family in which serious illness occurs is not much interested in the details which make up the sickness bill," the statement said, "but is greatly concerned with the total."

FESS WOULD PUT EX-PRESIDENTS IN SENATE FOR LIFE

Will Introduce Bill to Make Them Ex-Officio Members at $25,000 a Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—A proposal to permit former Presidents to serve as ex-officio members of the Senate after they leave office was introduced today by Senator Fess (Rep.), Ohio.

Fess announced that at the next regular session in December he would introduce a constitutional amendment to carry the proposal into effect. Under the amendment former Presidents would serve as Senators-at-large for life terms and would receive $25,000 yearly.

He added that his proposed amendment probably would evoke bitter opposition in Congress, particularly as to the salary involved, because Senators are paid only $10,000 a year, but he said he was prepared to wage a vigorous fight for the measure. He asserted, however, that he did not intend to "clutter up" the special session with such a proposal.

The salary he proposes, Fess said, would relieve former Presidents of financial worries and would assure them of an adequate income along with congenial work.

JUDGE REPLACES GRAND JUROR IN RYCKOFF INQUIRY

Resignation of E. A. Steininger as Foreman of Lighting Contract Investigation Is Accepted.

Resignation of Edward A. Steininger as foreman and a member of the April grand jury, presented yesterday, was accepted by Circuit Judge Hall today and another grand juror, Daniel F. Meehan, was made foreman.

Steininger, a contractor, living at 5519 Bartmer avenue, withdrew after a question as to his eligibility had been raised, based on the fact that he has served lately as building expert for the Board of Equalization, a temporary paid city position. State law disqualifies city employees from serving on the grand jury.

Meehan, the new foreman, is a paint salesman living at 4358 Laclede avenue. He formerly was a member of the old House of Delegates.

Judge Selects Alternate.

To fill the vacancy on the grand jury caused by Steininger's resignation, Judge Hall selected James Newell, an automobile agent.

The judge at first expressed doubt that Steininger was disqualified, as it appeared he had withdrawn from the work with the Board of Equalization. Steininger had asked to be excused when called, but Judge Hall desired a contractor on the investigational body because it has the task of investigating the $175,000 overpayment by the city to A. M. Ryckoff on his street lighting contract. Steininger then told Assessor Gehner he wished to stop his services with the Board of Equalization. The Assessor, however, expressed the opinion Tuesday that Steininger was still in the city employ, whereupon an inquiry was made by Judge Hall and Circuit Attorney Miller, who feared the possible disqualification of a grand juror might be made the basis of attacks on validity of indictments by defendants.

Steininger's letter of resignation to Judge Hall follows:

"I hereby tender my resignation as foreman of your present grand jury and ask that I be relieved of duty at once. You will recall that on March 29 I endeavored to be released from jury duty, due to the fact that the Equalization Board had selected me as an expert appraiser, and was informed that I must serve as a member of the grand jury. "I so informed Mr. Gehner, as I wanted to be free to discharge the duties of a grand juror, not knowing at that time that I was to be foreman of the grand jury. I have been trying to do my duty at a sacrifice to my business. People are constantly censured for not doing their duty, and when a man honestly attempts to do his duty he is censured for being inconsistent. Nobody can say that I ever have shirked my duty or that anyone ever owned or controlled me or my decision."

Suit for a divorce was filed yesterday by Mrs. Kathryn Kinsella Brady against Dr. Jules M. Brady, 1447 North Union boulevard, alleging general indignities. She also asks for custody of two sons, Jules, 10 years old, and Bernard S., 9.

Dr. and Mrs. Brady were married March 1, 1916, and separated more than a year ago. Several years ago Mrs. Brady filed suit for separate maintenance and obtained an order for $250 a month, but the Court of Appeals reversed the decision.

WOULD ALTER METHOD OF ELECTING ALDERMEN

Senate Passes Resolution for Referendum on Amending St. Louis Charter.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 11.—Submission to the voters of a constitutional amendment to permit a change in the city charter of St. Louis by which members of the Board of Aldermen could be elected by wards instead of at large is proposed in a resolution adopted in the Senate yesterday afternoon.

To obtain submission of an election the resolution must be passed in the House, which, because of the overwhelming Republican majority, is likely to defeat it. However, in the Senate many Republicans voted for it.

Since the adoption of the present charter in 1915 no Democrat has been elected to the board, the Republican majority in St. Louis being so large that Republicans have won the seats each time. If the election were by wards, it is believed that several Democrats would be chosen.

Senator Kinney introduced the resolution. He has offered it in several Legislatures in the past, and it has carried in the Democratic Senate only to meet defeat in the Republican House.

ESCOBAR SUE FOR ACCOUNT

EL PASO, Tex., April 11.—Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, provisional president and generalissimo of the Mexican revolutionaries, was sued here yesterday by a dry goods store for a haberdashery bill alleged to be due the firm. The company, in its complaint filed in District Court, asks for $1665.

The suit alleges that Gen. Escobar purchased the goods during the period between October, 1928, and March, 1929. Some of the material was delivered to Escobar in Juarez on March 9 and 11. A writ of attachment was issued on property at a Montana street address. El Paso, said to be owned by the Commander.

TELLS HOW GAME WARDENS EMPLOY RUSE IN SEARCHES

Julius Meyerhardt, Carried on Rolls as Attorney, Says Deputies Confiscate Pelts and Sell Them.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 11.—
An insight into peculiar methods used by the State Game and Fish Department was obtained by the Senate Judiciary Committee last night when Julius Meyerhardt, carried on the rolls as attorney for the department, appeared in support of a bill to give to the department the right to apply for search warrants for game and fish taken in violation of the law.

Under questioning by members of the committee, Meyerhardt said that for a time it was customary for deputies in the department to apply for search warrants as in liquor cases or theft cases. When they had reason to think they would find game or fish illegally taken, deputies would apply for search warrants on the ground that illegal liquor or stolen goods would be found.

Entering a place for which a search warrant was issued, the deputies of course would not find the liquor or the stolen goods, but would find pelts of game or fish.
Because the search warrant did not cover the pelts or fish found, they could not prosecute the persons in whose possession they were found, but they could and would confis-cate the pelts or fish and sell them.

Wants Right of Search.
Meyerhardt naively told the committee that this proceeding was "hardly satisfactory," and the department desired a law which would permit search and seizure of game and fish.

Noting that Meyerhardt held the position of attorney for the department, and not finding provision in the law for an attorney, members of the committee questioned him about his job. He said he was chief investigator and that he conducted prosecutions. The department, he said, had found that the average Prosecuting Attorney was not very effective in game law prosecutions. It developed from the question that Meyer-hardt's salary as attorney or chief investigator was $1460 a year, which is $4 a day, that being the wage authorized for Deputy Game Wardens.

Total of 500 Deputies.
Some of the Senators became interested in the number of deputies employed. Meyerhardt said there were 36, but under questioning explained that these were District Game Wardens and that each had 150 or more deputies working under him. One member of the committee figured out that the total would run close to 500.

The committee took no action on the search and seizure bill. When a motion was put to kill it, Senator McCawley of Carthage suggested that action be deferred, "as this is one of the most refreshing situations we have encountered."
He said the Legislature might desire to look more thoroughly into the organization of the department.

ACQUITTED OF KILLING ON GROUND OF SELF-DEFENSE

Oatley Neal Testifies He Stabbed
Otto Burrows Who Was Beating Him.

Oatley Neal, 35 years old, a painter, was acquitted by a jury yesterday at his trial in Circuit Judge Rutledge's Court for manslaughter in the stabbing of Otto Burrows, 52, a laborer, on Christmas night in the yard behind 223
Lafayette avenue.

Neal pleaded self-defense, testifying he was visiting at the Lafayette avenue address when Burrows appeared in an intoxicated condition and threatened to beat him.
Burrows, he said, followed him into the yard and was beating him when he drew his knife.

Other witnesses testified that Neal fled to Rolla, Mo., but returned to St. Louis and surrendered on learning that Burrows was dead.

Hotel Guest's Trousers Stolen.
Simon M. Halle, a guest at Hotel Jefferson, notified police at 4:10
a. m. today that a sneak thief had entered his room during the night, taking his trousers, $25 in cash, his watch and $180 in drafts on a Baltimore bank.

NATIONAL ORIGINS LAW REPEAL IS DEMANDED

Senator Wagner of New York Calls Act Dangerous Legislation.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Charging that the national origins section of the immigration law denies the existence of an American nation, Senator Robert F. Wagner (Dem.), New York, last night demanded the immediate repeal of that provision during the extra session of Congress. The section becomes effective July 1.

In a dinner discussion at Town Hall, under the auspices of the Conference on Immigration Policy, the Senator said that foreign-born were rapidly assimilated and urged the Government "not to attempt to drag the immigrant into Americanism."

The national origins law, he said, "to my mind is a dangerous and subversive piece of legislation because it writes into law the doctrine that American assimilation has never taken place and never can; that America never has been a nation and never can become one." Under the national origins clause, he said, "the total white population of the United States is divided into various nationalities and the quota of each European country is measured by the proportion which it represents of the total. The maximum number of immigrants admitted under these quotas is about 154,000."

"Everyone of us, whether a recent immigrant or a descendant of the early explorers, is assigned to an Old World nationality. If one's great-grandfather of pre-colonial days arrived in the United States from the Netherlands, then he is counted a Dutch-American. According to this method of enumeration the experts have decided that the great bulk of us are Anglo-Americans. It has been estimated that about 40 of our 95 million white persons residing in the United States came from colonial stock. Yet each one of this contingent is assigned to the nationality of his original forebear."

The Senator spoke in favor of restricted immigration, although he urged avoidance of "regulations which set the immigrant as a thing apart, to be identified and numbered and watched."

CONTRACTOR TELLS OF WINDOW PEEPING AT HIS WIFE'S HOME

Thomas J. Scully of Newark, N. J., Says He Saw Robert C. Baldwin With Mrs. Scully.

By the Associated Press.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 11.—Thomas J. Scully, builder of the Newark Athletic Stadium, athlete and sportsman, testified yesterday before Vice Chancellor John Bentley that on several occasions he peered through windows of his wife's home in Glen Ridge and saw her in the arms of Robert C. Baldwin, reputedly wealthy nephew of the late C. Lee Cook, inventor and scholar, of Louisville, Ky.

The testimony was taken in the double divorce action of the Scullys.

The wife, Mrs. Alice Brainard Scully, filed a divorce action, alleging cruelty.

Scully's counter-action charges infidelity.

Climbing

First, Ziegfeld picked her for his "Follies." Next, she was chosen for "Rio Rita" and now Warner Brothers will present her in the movies. Dainty Agnes Franey is climbing; helped by clever dancing and seldom equaled beauty.

Miss Franey says: "I don't believe in overlooking anything which helps add to your attractiveness. I am most particular about my hair, and so many friends compliment me on its softness and lustre that I am sure my method of caring for it is right. Nearly all the girls I know here in New York are using it, now. It is so easy. All we do is put a little Danderine on our brushes each time we dress our hair. It makes my hair easy to dress and holds it in place wonderfully. It has gotten rid of my dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so comfortable, that I don't shampoo half as often as I did before. And, best of all, it gives my hair a softer, more silky and lustrous appearance than anything I've ever found."

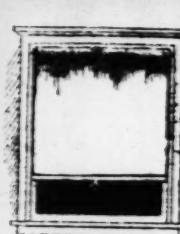

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color, makes it fairly sparkle! Dandruff usually disappears when you use Danderine. Waves "set" with it, stay in long. It's a delicately fragrant, isn't it? doesn't show. It's economical! The 30c bottles will last several weeks. All drug stores recommended and guarantee it.

was succeeded by Dr. M. A. Ellis of St. Louis, a noted alienist. W.
M. Bowker of Nevada is succeeded by Jesse McDonald of St. Louis, a lawyer of high standing. Carl F.
Baker of Caruthersville and Augustus J. Hockaday of Fulton were reappointed. The sixth member of the board, Mark A. McGruder of Sedalia, will remain on the board until June 13, 1929, when his term expires. It is the understanding here that he will not be reappointed.

Under the law the board is bipartisan. Monier, Baker and Ellis are Republicans and Hockaday, McDonald and McGruder, Democrats.

A complete reorganization of the staffs of several of the institutions is expected, political appointees forced on the old board during the Baker regime being slated for removal.

A shake-up of the staffs at the State Hospitals in Fulton, St. Joseph and Nevada is anticipated, while conditions are said to be satisfactory at the hospital at Farmington, and at the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Mount Vernon.
The Farmington hospital, which is in charge of Dr. Emmett F. Hortor, is classed among the best in the United States.

Monier and McGruder are the only salaried members of the board.
Monier's salary as president being $5000 a year, and McGruder's as secretary $1800 a year.

Caulfield said he believed the State was fortunate in obtaining Dr. Ellis as a member. Ellis, one of the most widely known alienists in the Middle West, has assured the Governor he will give to the institutions considerable part of his time.

BANKER'S MISSING DAUGHTER FOUND WORKING AS WAITRESS

Miss Rosemond Morse of Brookline, Mass., Had Left Home

Last January.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MIAMI, Fla., April 11.—Pension over the anxiety she had caused her father, Edward W.
Morse Jr., Boston banker, since she left her home in Brookline,
Mass., last Jan. 17, Miss Rosemond Morse, 17 years old, is preparing to go back home today. She is under guard in the home of Frank
A. Roberts, a private detective.

Miss Morse, who preferred waiting on tables in a Miami hotel to attending a fashionable Back Bay school, was found yesterday after working here three months under the name of Mary Joan Sprague.
Her identity was exposed by a Cuban youth, Duque de Baccardi, who sought a reward for discovering the girl's whereabouts.

retiring for the night to the room she shared with her 14-year-old sister, Helen. She came directly to Miami where she obtained employment in the Savoy Hotel as a waitress. De Baccardi recognized her from newspaper photographs accompanying stories of her disappearance from her home.

JENNINGS WOMAN TELLS HOW WELDONA RID HER OF CHRONIC RHEUMATISM

Knee Joints Creaked Like Old Dry Hinge—Arms—Shoulders Were Stiff and Sore—Feels Fine Now

"I am truly thankful that I learned about Weldon tablets, for they have given me a new lease of life."

MRS. L. KLINKEMPER.

"My arms and shoulders were sore and stiff and it was very difficult for me to get my hand to my head to comb my hair. I had tried so many so-called 'cures' for rheumatism that I was skeptical about trying Weldon tablets, but so many St. Louis people had been benefited that I thought I would try once more. I am glad I did, for in a short time the pain and stiffness left me. I can now climb stairs as well as ever, get my hand to my head and feel like a new person. I would be glad to tell anyone more about my case if they will call, or write to my address."

$1000 reward to anyone proving this testimonial is not genuine. Weldon tablets are always put up in a box—never in a bottle. Ask for Weldon tablets, which are recommended for rheumatism and rheumatic conditions only. Weldon tablets are absolutely harmless and will not upset the stomach, affect the heart or any other organ. The Weldon representative, who now meets the public every day at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington Ave., St. Louis, gladly explains more about this remedy and gives out the 24-page fully illustrated and interesting book, entitled "Germs of Rheumatism," which are absolutely free of charge to all who call or write for them.

LESS CONGRESSIONAL DRINKING, JONES SAYS

Washington Senator Admits Some of Them Violate Law, However.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEWARK, N. J., April 11.—The fact that Senators and Representatives drink liquor is no excuse for ordinary citizens to violate the law, Senator Wesley L. Jones (Rep.) of Washington, father of the Jones act, declared last night at the regional conference of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey. "Those opposed to prohibition often give as an excuse for drinking the fact that Senators and Representatives do it," Jones said. "There are some Senators and Representatives who drink. I regret it. They and those who hold office and have taken a special obligation to obey and maintain the Constitution and laws of the land, especially should do so. "Their failure, however, does not exclude any citizen for violating the laws of his country. In my judgment, a far fewer number of Senators and Representatives drink now than did 20 and 25 years ago. I have seen far fewer Senators during the last 19 years than I did during the preceding 19 years. They will get fewer and fewer as the years go by."

Possession Not Mentioned.
"You hear and read much about the Jones-Stalker act. There is much interest in it. Some may not understand it and some fear it. Those opposed to it seek to deceive the people as to its scope and meaning. A common statement by many who know, or ought to know better is that under it a school boy, merely having in his possession a half-pint of liquor, may be arrested and fined $10,000 and sent to the penitentiary for five years. That strikes many as severe and without reflection or knowledge they are inclined to object to the law on this ground alone. Such a statement gives an absolutely false impression. "A person may possess a gallon or any other amount of liquor and not be subject to this act at all. This act does not deal with the mere possession of liquor by anyone in any way. Possession of liquor is not mentioned and no penalty is prescribed by the act for such possession. This act deals only with the manufacture, the sale, the transportation, the importation and exportation of liquor for beverage purposes."

Penalty Up to the Judge.
"This act simply undoes the Volstead act by making the maximum penalty a $10,000 fine or five years in the penitentiary, or both such fine and imprisonment. The penalty actually inflicted under it may be $1 or one day in jail. The judge may impose any penalty under the maximum he deems just."

Senator Jones reiterated his denunciation of a "coterie of young lawyers in New York City" who have pledged their services to defend poor and indigent persons charged with violation of the Jones law. Dr. Willis J. Abbott, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, denouncing propaganda of the "kete" stressing the number of Americans who are going to Canada and abroad, because of what they term the "lack of liberty," declared: "For every rich American who goes abroad eager for the wine shops of Paris, there are 100 working Europeans clamoring to get into the United States in spite of prohibition."

ONE HOLDUP SUSPECT FREED, SECOND YOUTH HELD FOR TRIAL

Victim of Robbery Uncertain as to Whether George Thomas, 17, Was the Man.

A charge of highway robbery against George Thomas, 17 years old, was dismissed by Justice of the Peace Stover at Clayton yesterday when C. A. Morgan, an automobile salesman, testified he was not certain Thomas was the man who robbed him of $27 March 27. He previously had identified Thomas as the robber.

William Falkner, 19, was held for trial under $10,000 bond on a robbery charge after two men identified him as one of three robbers who held up the Kroger store at Carson and St. Charles roads March 20, taking $124.

HOOVER SELECTS BANKER TO HEAD INDIAN BUREAU

Charles James Rhoads of Philadelphia, Withholds Acceptance Until He Confers With Partners.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—After weeks of search President Hoover has found in Charles James Rhoads a Philadelphia banker the man he wants to administer the affairs of the Indian Bureau, which frequently has come under congressional fire in late years. Rhoads desires to serve, but is delaying a formal acceptance until he can make arrangements to leave with his partners in the banking firm of Brown Brothers & Co., and other enterprises.

Rhoads called on the President at the White House yesterday for a brief discussion of the situation. He was accompanied by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur under whom he would serve. While having engaged in the banking business virtually all of his life, Rhoads long has been interested in Indian affairs, an interest he shared with his father, James E. Rhoads. He now is president of the Indian Rights Association and also is an officer of the American Academy of Political and Social Science and a member of the American Philosophical Society.

Rhoads would succeed Charles H. Burke, whose resignation was accepted some weeks ago, but who, the President has stated, will receive another appointment to a responsible position in the Federal Government at some later time. After inquiring into the affairs of the Indian Bureau, Wilbur said he wanted to find for the post of commissioner a man well acquainted with sociological problems. He also stated that he wanted to wean the Indians from complete dependence upon the Federal Government.

Rhoads was born at Germantown, Pa., 37 years ago and was educated at the William Penn Charter School, of which he now is overseer, and Haverford College. He is a member of the board of managers of that institution.

Beginning as a clerk in the Girard Trust Co. of Philadelphia in 1892, he was made treasurer of that institution in 1900 and resigned four years after to become governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia. After serving four years in that capacity he became president of the Central National Bank and a director in the Girard Trust Co., the Provident Trust Co. and the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co.

During the World War Rhoads saw service in France as chairman of the Y. M. C. A. War Prisoners Aid and chief of the Friends' Bureau of the American Red Cross for relief and reconstruction work in devastated France.

He is a trustee and director of Bryn Mawr College and trustee of the American Scandinavian Foundation. He is an Orthodox Quaker.

MINISTERS OPPOSE DANCING

Would Block Reported Petition of Joplin High School Students.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo., April 11.—The Ministerial Alliance has appointed a committee of three members to investigate reports that the Student Council of the senior high school has voted to petition the Board of Education to permit dancing at school functions, and other functions held by organizations of the school. The decision to appoint the committee followed the introduction of a resolution putting the Alliance on record as "looking with disfavor upon the official approval by the Board of Education of dancing in the high school."

No action was taken on the resolution, pending a report of the committee, which comprises the Rev. W. M. Gardner, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church; the Rev. William Riley Nelson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Rev. Cliff Titus, pastor of the First Community Church.

BANK FORMED TO AID MISSOURI FARMERS

It Will Advance Money for Spring Planting to Flood Victims.

Three years of flooded farms in Southeast Missouri and the consequent acute depression have led to the formation of a $250,000 bank to advance funds for spring planting. W. R. Humphrey, chairman of the St. Louis committee sponsoring the corporation, announced today through the Chamber of Commerce.

The concern to be known as the Southeast Missouri Agricultural Corporation, will be headed by a board of directors comprising 10
St. Louisans and six Southeast Mis-sourians. It will rediscount its loans with the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis, which has agreed to extend loans up to four times the paid-up capital of the new bank.

Loans will be secured by growing crops, livestock, farm equipment and any available security that may be deemed necessary.
Humphrey said, and will bear interest not to exceed two per cent of the prevailing rediscount rate of the intermediate credit bank.

Organization of the bank is an emergency move. All but $50,000 of the $250,000 capital stock is being subscribed by St. Louis commercial banks, investment bankers, railroads, mortgage banks, wholesalers, retailers and manufacturers.

In addition to Humphrey, the committee is composed of Paul Bestor, head of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank; W. H. Danforth, president of the Johnston-Parison Co.; J. M. Kurn, president of the St. Louis San Francisco Railroad; E. D. Nims, president of the Bell Telephone Co.; A. W. Shap-leigh, chairman of the board of Shapleigh Hardware Co.; H. L. Harrison, president of the Missouri
State Life Insurance Co.; and Hord
Hardin, vice president of the

CONSCIENCE-STRICKEN VETERAN RETURNS HIS SERVICE BARS

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 11.—The War Department has received an unusual contribution to its conscience fund in the form of service bars from a former service man who said he was not entitled to them. The bars are those of the Meuse-Argonne and Aisne-Marne offensive and defensive sectors.

The former soldier, whose name was withheld at his request, stated that his service in the war did not entitle him to the bars and that he was sorry that his mental condition at the time he made application for them was such that he should claim eligibility to the decorations.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, April 11.—A new plot to assassinate former President Calles, the second in recent weeks, was reported by the newspaper Universal today. The newspaper said that a man and woman involved in the conspiracy probably would be under arrest shortly.

Quoting the chief of the local military garrison, the newspaper said that the unsuccessful plot was to bomb the former President's train and assassinate him while he was passing through the State of Jalisco a few days ago on his way from central Mexico to the Pacific coast to take over the drive against the rebels in Sinaloa.

Universal said that Santiago Perez and a woman whose name is not given were sent to Mexico City recently by the Northern rebels to obtain explosives. These were to be sent to Jalisco to be used in the train bombing. It was stated that some of the rebel generals knew of the plot and that certain residents of Toluca also were implicated.

The garrison chief said that the plot was disclosed when incriminating documents were found in a hotel room here where Perez was living.

Perez obtained the explosives, but was unable to get them out of Mexico City.

Rebelists says that four ranking naval officers who were arrested a month ago in connection with their handling of the Mexican Navy at the outbreak of the rebellion at Vera Cruz have been released. They are Commodore Antonio Ortega Medina, Arturo Madariaga and Jose Miranda, and Capt. Alberto Azcarce. Three other officers are still held.

1500 U. S. Soldiers Ordered to the Sonora Border.

By the Associated Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 11.—Approximately 1500 United States soldiers were ready today to proceed to Arizona and New Mexico border points within a short distance of Sonora, Mexico, where a major battle between opposing forces in the Mexican revolution appeared imminent.

Orders for the movement of 1000 men, members of the Twentieth Infantry of Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., and the remainder of the Seventh Cavalry supplemented by a Field Artillery Battalion from Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex., were issued here yesterday by Major-General William Lassiter, commander of the United States Army Eighth Corps Area. The troops from Fort D. A. Russell will go to Bisbee, Ariz., and from Fort Bliss will augment the cavalrymen already dispatched to Hachita, N. M., several days ago.

Eighteen United States planes already are patrolling the border under orders to shoot down any Mexican planes flying north of the international line.

Gen. Lassiter described the movement of troops as "a precautionary measure to afford adequate protection to our border in possible emergency." Explaining his action more fully, the General said: "Information as to the Mexican situation indicates that the weight of the contending forces in Sonora may be greatly increased in the future."

"With this increased number of contestants in Sonora, the problem of affording protection to our side of the border already difficult on account of the proximity of the American and Mexican towns to each other, becomes increasingly difficult."

Gen. Lassiter said the assignment of the soldiers from Fort Bliss was "in the nature of a practice march but this force will be in a position to return to its proper station or continue into Arizona in accordance with developments of the situation."

Mexican rebels had been making efforts to obtain war chemicals, including poisonous gas, Maj. J. L. Gibson, chemical warfare officer of the United States Army Eighth Corps Area, told the San Antonio Express.

Omitted From Membership.

ROME, April 11.—The new Italian Academy of 50 members, like its elder sister, the French Academy, is already coming in for considerable underground criticism, not so much because of the choice of its components, but because of the notable omissions in its make-up.

Even as the French Academy in the late nineties refused to admit Emile Zola, the realistic novelist; Frederic Mistral, the bard of Provence, and Alphonse Daudet, the Italian counterpart of "The Old Lady by the Sea," has left out six noted exponents of modern Italian thought.

The first omission on the list is that of Gabriele D'Annunzio, whose name in nearly four decades has focused more attention upon Italian letters than that of any other writer. Italy's greatest living poet, novelist and dramatist is not among the 50 "immortals."

Guglielmo Ferrero, perhaps the greatest living historian of ancient Rome, has not only been passed over by the academy but is not even mentioned in the new Italian "Who's Who."

Senator Benedetto Croce, historian of modern Italy, founder of his own school of philosophical thinking and noted literary critic, is omitted. Likewise is Giovanni Papini, whose "Life of Christ," published first in 1920, is still a topic of discussion the world over.

The remaining two of the six illustrious unnamed are Ugo Ojetti, Italy's foremost art critic, commentator on things American—he published "L'America Vittoriosa" as far back as 1898—and author of a number of works of literary and artistic reminiscences, and Sen Benelli, poet and dramatist, second only to Pirandello (who is a member of the new Academy). Benelli's "Cena delle Befane," known in English as "The Jest," has a wide reputation, and his "L'Amore De Tre Re" ("The Love of the Three Kings") bids fair to be almost as well known.

Three directions today, giving rise to the announcement of revolutionary leaders that they soon expected to besiege the little Federal garrison with overwhelming numbers.

Federal occupation of the Naco region, which held by about 1000 loyal soldiers under Gen. Lucas Gonzalez, constitutes the only immediate major threat to rebel activities in the revolutionary State of Sonora.

With Gen. J. Gonzalo Escobar, revolutionary commander-in-chief, to lead them, rebel troops retreating from Chihuahua were reported to be pouring through Pulpito Pass into Sonora and it was said that the entire force numbered "not less than 8000 men" would reach Agua Prieta, 16 miles east of here, by tonight.

About 600 troops, said to be from the rebel army retreating into Sonora from Sinaloa, were reported to have reached the hills south of Naco last night, joining forces with Gen. Fausto Topete's army. The latter force is said to number upwards of 2000 men.

Gen. Topete was making frequent trips from his camp to the south of Naco to Agua Prieta to meet the first battalions of Gen. Escobar's incoming army. Gen. Escobar's exact whereabouts, yesterday not known here early today, but he was thought to be in Nogales, Sonora, conferring with Gen. Francisco Borquez.

Rebel leaders said it was essential to the revolt cause to take Naco. They pointed out that unless this were done, it might be possible for Federals who now control Juarez, to transport large bodies of troops across the United States to enter Mexico at that point and attack rebel forces from the rear.

Reports coming from Topete's camp said the rebels were preparing to attack Naco with gas bombs and artillery. The report spurred the Federals to further fortify the garrison with heavy timbers, and to send airplanes over the rebel camp. An anonymous circular distributed in Naco, Ariz., yesterday, gave warning of a proposed gas bomb attack and admonished citizens to be ready to evacuate the town. So far as known here, no one has left.

Americans Tell of Experiences With Mexican Rebels.

By the Associated Press.
EL PASO, Tex., April 11.—Four men, Americans who went to war with the Mexican insurgents, today found their thrilling adventures ended.

R. E. Gilbert, 25 years old, Eastland, Tex., and a companion he knew only as "Butler," were abducted by the rebels and sentenced to death, but reprieved. They were allowed to return to the United States. Fred Wood of Richmond Hall, L. I., and Albert Holliday of Amarillo, Tex., joined the revolutionary forces "just for the fun of it," they said. They were among a detachment of 40 rebels captured by Federals near Guadalupe, now are held as prisoners of war at Juarez. Mexican Federal authorities have promised to release them, however.

LONDON, April 11.—Spiritism as a political issue will enliven the oratory of political speli-binders in the Parliamentary elections campaign which began throughout Great Britain this week.

The International Federation of Spiritism, an influential body with which Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and Sir Oliver Lodge are connected, has asked Conservatives, Liberals and Laborites for an amendment to the witchcraft act, passed 132 years ago, which declares that spirits do not exist, and that anyone claiming to be in communication with spirits is an impostor. For such imposture the act provides a penalty.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, April 11.—Prospects for creation of a stable coalition government which would include the Centrists in addition to the parties at present represented in the Cabinet were brighter today despite the furries which made the Government's resignation seem imminent Tuesday.

The Mueller Cabinet decided to remain at its post in its morning session and to put up the responsibility of accepting or leaving the budget to all the parties, after Parliament had voted appropriations for work on a new 9000-ton cruiser and curtailed aviation subsidies.

The Centrist party yesterday affirmed and it is confidently expected that the Social Democrats, the Democrats, the People's party and the Bavarian People's party who now constitute the coalition, will decide similarly today.

With Change in Way of Choosing State Officers.PROMPT ACTION BY GOVERNOR NEEDEDWithout It, Statutory Measvors Are Likely to Be Beaten in House.By CURTIS A. BETTS,

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 11.—The passage yesterday by the Senate of the Wammack resolution submitting to a state-wide vote a plan for a constitutional budget system may mean the strongest sort of a state budget system, or it may mean the defeat of the program for a budget.

With very little opposition, the Wammack resolution was adopted in the Senate, meeting none of the opposition which it aroused when it was up for engrossment a week ago, and after the system of the new budget system, which had been characterized by the debate of the legislative budget act Tuesday.

This can be accounted for in several ways. In the first place the Senators who seek to prevent the accomplishment of any of the governmental reform program the success of which might be expected to injure the political machine built up by State officials through their extensive patronage privileges, believe that the submission of an amendment to the constitution would be a mere gesture, but that its submission could be used effectively in the House to defeat any legislative plan.

Two Proposals Interlocked.
Wammack's amendment contains two distinct propositions. The first is to change the method of electing the Secretary of State, the Attorney-General, the Auditor and the Treasurer, giving to the Legislature the power to decide how they shall be chosen, by general election as now, by appointment by the Governor or by election by the Legislature. The other proposition is to establish a budget system in the constitution.

As passed by the Senate the two propositions would be submitted together and would be inseparable. The general opinion among those informed on public affairs in Missouri is that the proposal would fall at the polls; that while the voters might be and probably would be willing to adopt the budget system, they would reject it in defeating the proposal which would take from them the right to elect the State officers.

If this opinion is correct there would be no budget system unless the Legislature provided one by statute, contemplated in Senate bills pending which will be called up today for consideration.

Republicans Back Wammack.
Wammack had the support of the entire Republican side of the Senate throughout his fight for his amendment, and as a result there was a working agreement by which Wammack supported the Republicans in their opposition to the Senate budget bills while they supported his amendment.

As this opposition appeared to mean the failure of the Senate bills, an agreement between Democratic leaders and Wammack was reached several days ago, the leaders promising to support the Wammack amendment and to pass it in the Senate before the statutory budget measures were passed. That part of the agreement was carried out yesterday.

It is expected now that Wammack will support the statutory bills, and that they will be passed in the Senate and will go along with the Wammack amendment to the House.

It is in the House that the greatest fear is felt for budget legislation. Secretary of State Becker, chief of the department of budget and central purchasing legislation, has a strong following there, and the influence of Republican officials generally is strong, the House having a Republican majority of 56.

How to Let Patronage Slip.
Few of the Republican leaders really favor a budget system. For the most part they are practical politicians, accustomed to use the patronage which goes along with practical politics, to maintain their organizations.

However, Gov. Caulfield is committed to a budget and a central purchasing program, and has said he would not consider the passage of the Wammack amendment sufficient. He believes the Wammack plan a good one and favors its adoption by the Legislature and

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Replying to an inquiry from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in the United States, Senator Borah (Rep.) of Idaho declared yesterday he would support "reasonable" tariff increases on agricultural products—"not that I love Canada less but that I love the United States more."

A field representative of the Canadian Chamber with headquarters at Boston, asked Senator Borah "just where you stand on the present agitation that is going on regarding the advancement of duties on goods imported from Canada into the United States."

The Canadian letter also advanced the suggestion that "any disruption of the cordial relations that now exist between the two countries is deplorable and can serve only toward a depression on both sides of the international border."

"No Way to Avoid It."
Senator Borah, who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in his reply declared: "The condition of agriculture in the United States is such that we are under the highest obligation to buy not only your manufactured goods in the home country, but to buy such other products as Canada did not produce in other parts of the British Empire where they were produced."

"I presume in some respects," he continued, "this may be to the disadvantage of your people. But in looking after the respective interests of our country, necessarily there must be some conflict of advantage. I know of no way to avoid it and I know of no country in the world which seeks to avoid it."

"I recall when the British Premier visited Canada a short time ago, he urged the Canadians to trade within the British Empire—to buy not only your manufactured goods in the home country, but to buy such other products as Canada did not produce in other parts of the British Empire where they were produced."

"I take exception to this, although if carried into effect, we would undoubtedly feel the effect of it."

3-Cent Sugar Duty Report.
Reports that the House Ways and Means Committee was considering a proposal to increase the world raw sugar duty to three cents a pound and that on the Cuban product to 2.40 cents were current yesterday, but committee members declined to comment.

Meanwhile, the American Farm Bureau Federation in a letter forwarded to the House by Charles Gray, its legislative representative, protested against any change from foreign to domestic valuation for purposes of assessing ad valorem duties unless this were of Wedding Princess Giovanna—Russian Grand Duchess Now Mentioned.

By the Associated Press.
SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 11.—King Boris may have to take a Grand Duchess for a bride instead of a Princess.

Religious obstacles today seemed destined to prevent his proposed marriage to Princess Giovanna of Italy and talk arose of a possible alliance with the Grand Duchess Kira Vladimirovitch, 13-year-old daughter of Grand Duke Cyril, recognized as head of the Romanoff family by many Russian royalists.

Information in diplomatic circles here was that both the Vatican and the Bulgarian church declined to yield sufficient ground to make the alliance with Princess Giovanna possible. It was said the Pope refused to give the Italian Princess a dispensation to marry King Boris unless it was agreed that offspring of the union would be reared in the Roman Catholic faith.

The Bulgarian Constitution stipulates that the heir to the throne must be a member of the Bulgarian Orthodox Church.

It also was understood that the Vatican demanded the establishment of a Papal Nuncio in Sofia and the appointment by Rome of a number of Roman Catholic Bishops in Bulgaria. This proviso the Bulgarian Government also considered unacceptable.

Premier Mussolini was reported as favoring the alliance in disregard even of the Vatican condition. It was said, however, that King Boris disliked pressing his suit further when so much opposition at home and abroad had appeared to it.

It was understood that his tour of European capitals would end without the projected visit to Rome.

Boris Expected to Return Direct to Sofia from Berlin.
BERLIN, April 11.—King Boris of Bulgaria was expected here today to return immediately to Sofia, capital of his country, thus completing a tour of Central Europe without the visit which he had planned to Rome.

He has traveled incognito.

Paris Newspaper Says Marriage Has Been Abandoned.
PARIS, April 11.—The Echo de Paris says that the projected marriage of King Boris of Bulgaria and Princess Giovanna of Italy has been definitely abandoned owing to religious differences between the two.

It is reported that the Vatican's rule of failing to authorize mixed marriages unless it was agreed that male children would be reared in the Roman Catholic Church could not be reconciled with the regulations of the Bulgarian Orthodox Church.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Sweden's instrument of adherence to the multilateral anti-war treaty has reached the Swedish legation here and soon will be deposited in the archives of the State Department.

Sweden is the nineteenth of the 49 nations invited to adhere to complete acceptance of the treaty. The agreement will go in force as soon as ratifications of France and Japan are deposited.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—On his arrival in London as Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Charles G. Dawes will find before him one major and several minor questions affecting British-American relations.

The major one is that of further limitation of naval armaments, involving cruisers and other auxiliary fighting craft, to round out the agreement affecting battleships and airplane carriers reached at the Washington arms conference in 1921.

Among other questions are the arbitration treaty proposed by Secretary Kellogg late in 1927 to replace the Root treaty which expired on June 4, 1928, and the vexing question of the freedom of the seas, which has been more or less dormant since the Paris peace conference.

By that time the liquor treaty negotiated in 1924 by Charles E. Hughes may be up for reconsideration as a result of the exchanges now going on between the United States and Canada over the sinking of the Canadian schooner "Im Alone" by a Coast Guard cutter in the Gulf of Mexico some 200 miles from shore.

May Review Liquor Treaty.
Operations under this treaty have led to several international incidents and there is a general feeling here that both the United States and British Governments might wish to review its terms in the not distant future, with a view either to its modification or its abrogation.

In the first place some American officials doubt that the pact would stand the test of review by the United States Supreme Court and in the second they are dubious that it has brought the results that were expected.

The British are represented as desiring a clarification of a number of points in the treaty, such as the right of continuous pursuit and the sinking of suspected liquor runners after such pursuit has carried the ships far out upon the high seas.

Far Apart on Disarmament.
The extension of naval disarmament apparently is no nearer a solution than it was with the breaking up of the tripartite conference at Geneva several years ago after the British and American delegates became deadlocked over the question of cruiser tonnage.

The two Governments are far apart on their viewpoints. Great Britain contending for a sharp limitation of tonnage in the 10,000-ton class without limitation on

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of the people, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely political news; always, he drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Gen. Harbord and State Rights.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE president of RCA boasts a large amount of Victorianism to be the head of so large and progressive a company as the one which he directs. I thought that the matter of state rights died with the Civil War, but this gentleman must have been raised south of the Mason-Dixon line, and must not have heard who did win the above mentioned sanguinary conflict.

At any rate, this is the age of centralization, and the president of RCA should know this above everyone. Centralization is the watchword of business in this age. Why not make it that of government?

The Government of a country as large as the United States is the biggest business in that country. Why, then, does our friend howl about centralization in this one business, when he would have even more strongly should decentralization be forced on his and other businesses?

I have a sneaking suspicion that the RCA believes itself better able to cope with the various state governments in the matter of government regulation than it now finds itself doing with the Federal Government.

EDWIN ASHLEY LAMKE.

High Cost of Curing Colds.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WISH some reader of the Post-Dispatch would tell me why it costs more to cure a cold in St. Louis than in any other town in the country? In a great many towns, in nearby states a doctor either gives away his whiskey prescriptions or charges a dollar or a dollar and a half each, but here it is $1, and the Government even furnishes the blanks.

And when a doctor or druggist is caught selling whiskey or prescriptions he is slapped on the wrist. No talk of padlocking his place of business. My goodness, no. These boys must belong to a favored class.

FAIR PLAY.

A Protest Against Daylight Saving.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN the discussion of daylight saving I want to protest for two classes of people who have not protested for themselves—the children and the poor.

When daylight saving is in force, instead of the heat and noise ending at 9 o'clock the children are an hour late getting to bed and those who must go to summer school, as I expect my boy shall have to do, must rise a half hour earlier than for the regular school, as summer school begins at 8:30 instead of 9.

I can't understand why anyone should want to lengthen the already too long, too hot midsummer days. A little more light in the winter would be fine, but in the summer the majority of people sit around in the hot afternoons, gasping and fanning and waiting impatiently for the blessed relief of the cool darkness. I think all mothers would dedicate that cool morning hour to the children's much-needed rest, and it seems to me that their rest is more important than any's golf game or garden.

Also, the day lasts all too long for the poor people who are forced to go to the parks to try to get a little sleep.

Daylight saving would be a hardship on the children and poor people and, therefore, I think it would be unwise to force it upon them, especially when the people who would benefit by it have the privilege of rising earlier if they wish to lengthen their day.

A MOTHER.

Join the Humane Society.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE week of April 14 is to be designated as "Be Kind to Animals" week. This idea is instigated by the Humane Society of St. Louis, as most people will surmise.

Now, people of St. Louis, get behind this movement, as you have gotten behind so many worthy causes. And there surely is none more worthy. Teach the children to be humane, for there is the place to begin, in the heart of a child.

If the animals of our Zoo did not receive humane treatment they would not last long for your education and enjoyment.

Each and every man, woman and child of St. Louis should be a member of the Humane Society. The paltry sum of $1 per year enrolls you.

A HUMANITARIAN.

Wet-Dry Congressmen.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN a recent statement Senator Reed characterized those members of Congress who vote "dry" and drink "wet" as "hypocrites."

Interposing an objection to Mr. Reed's statement, I will say they are not hypocrites at all; they like their drinks just like anyone else. They are just simple perjurers, who held up their right hand and swore they would defend the Constitution of the United States, when, in fact, they had already sold themselves to the Anti-Saloon League for its aid in electing them to Congress. Contemptible cowards! They haven't the moral courage to run on their own merits and take a chance on being elected, but make a solemn promise before election that they will vote as the Anti-Saloon League dictates in order to secure their seat in Congress.

J. B. DICKEY.

HOW MUCH, MR. MILLER?

How much money was spent in the primary contest for the nomination of Mayor Miller is a matter of proper public interest. The question, however, will not be answered. Isaac A. Hedges, manager of Mr. Miller's primary campaign, has announced that no accounting will be filed, because, as he understands it, the law does not require a statement of primary campaign expenditures. "It's all over," remarked Mr. Hedges, disposing of the subject as a closed incident.

Mr. Hedges may be right as to the law, though that point is, in our opinion, debatable. In the matter of public policy Mr. Hedges is wrong. Primary expenditures have given rise to scandals of the first magnitude. The "Lowden slush fund" of 1920 is still an embarrassing Missouri memory, when Lowden money was found in the pockets of State leaders and ward heelers, including the "gold dust twins" of St. Louis.

Of later vintage was Pennsylvania's "golden primary," which retired the able and scholarly Pepper and nominated the delectable Vare, who is still knocking vainly for admission to the Senate. The corporation support which the Insull interests lavishly accorded Mr. Smith in Illinois in the contest for the senatorial nomination voided that gentleman's credentials.

We do not intimate that the primary expenditures in Mr. Miller's behalf were excessive. The charge, however, was made by Mr. Kiel's supporters that "the Miller people are spending all kinds of money." The attitude of Mr. Hedges, with Mr. Miller's approval, in refusing to refute that charge with a candid and complete statement of the primary collections and disbursements, is not reassuring. The fact that the Kiel organization spent $45,000 in the primary and lost raises an interesting question in the public mind as to the amount the Miller forces spent for a nomination which was held to be equivalent to election.

The question should be answered. The law ought to compel an answer. The majority of St. Louis should not be auctioned to the highest bidder.

OUR CONFUSED MORALS.

It is comforting to learn that such moral confusion as Missouri has just indulged herself in the matter of the sex questionnaire at the State university does not greatly differ from things happening in old cultural centers like Boston and London.

Boston has a dreadful time deciding what books her citizens can read without being demoralized. London is in trouble upon the same score. She prescribed "The Well of Loneliness," which provoked some of her citizens to seek for inconsistencies in such a puritanical attitude. One curious discovery was that two French scientific works, one on chemistry and the other on glacial formations in Switzerland, had been held up in the customs for two months because they came in the same parcel with "Le Dieu des Corps," by M. Jules Romain, playwright, novelist and poet. The Daily News asked the customs officials upon what theory the two scientific books were held up, and it was told that they were seized under the doctrine of taint.

Naturally, there is great amusement in London, which wonders how a French play could contaminate either a book on chemistry or one on glaciers. Sir Oswald Mosley will even ask Parliament for some clarification of such incredible moral confusion. Unfortunately, our Missouri Legislature is hardly a quarter to which we can look for clarification of the incredible confusion over at Columbia. We shall have to wait upon time.

REPARATIONS.

Dr. Wilhelm Marx, thrice Chancellor of Germany, says the attention of the whole civilized world is centered upon the forthcoming report of the experts' commission now sitting in Paris upon the grievous subject of reparations.

In our opinion Dr. Marx might also have said that the apprehensions of the world are also centered there. The war ended more than 10 years ago. Historians who have investigated its causes are agreed that Germany was no more responsible for it than some of the other participants. Yet here is a bill against her for damages that is so staggering that the victors, much less the losers, would be hard put to pay it. In the whole course of history no such reprisal was ever visited upon a conquered people. It is particularly disquieting to learn that the Americans on the commission are alone in refusing to make it smaller because they are afraid if they do so the European nations will expect to get out of some part of their own war debts to us.

Dr. Marx says it is expected that the experts will agree upon an annual reparations payment of 1,750,000,000 marks ($437,500,000) for 57 years. That is, they probably realize that Germany cannot continue paying the 2,500,000,000 marks annually required of her by the London treaty of 1924. He admits that Germany's economy has been gaining ground; but as everyone knows it has done so by borrowing money, chiefly in the United States. Her loans are by this time estimated at a total of 10,000,000,000 marks, and she is paying the high rate of 10 per cent on them. In 1923 the excess of her imports over exports was 2,500,000,000 marks, so that she has by no means recovered her financial balance.

It is therefore natural that the rest of the world should regard the session of the experts with grave misgivings. The Germans feel that the consequences of having to pay a huge indemnity for so long a period as 57 years would not be upon them alone, nor is it likely that the rest of the world thinks they would. Indeed, it is not easy to understand why the reparations problem cannot by this time be lifted bodily from the cockpit in which the beaten Germans acknowledged responsibility for the war into the field of politics. There is where all the other war debts are, and they have very largely lost their power to do mischief. Some of them, as for instance the money which the French would like to borrow for military operations in the Riff or Syria if they did not already owe millions to the only people who have any, really possess power to do good.

Dr. Marx denies that Germany, because of this persistent disposition to make her pay for the war because she lost it, is in peril of becoming politically demoralized. Nor does anyone who knows the hardihood of German character, which has weathered many great storms, believe that she is in any such danger. The real danger is that in pressing an advantage so relentlessly the allied Governments will at last enmesh themselves in the net set for the Germans. There is an international economy that is not insensible to disease in any of its major parts. We have seen what this means in the detachment of Russia from the trade and commerce of the world. To exaggerate that damage to the international economy by reducing Germany, one of the great industrial and commercial nations, to more than a half-century of beggary is, in our opinion, a major mistake entailing possible consequences disastrous to all nations.

BROOKHART'S WILD IMPULSE.

A good example of the wild impulse to resort to law to control human conduct and affairs in general for the purpose of remedying all the evils or supposed evils of human society is presented in the proposed law of Senator Brookhart to outlaw speculation and put into the hands of Congress the sole power to fix discount rates.

It may be granted that evils arise out of speculation and that the interests of legitimate business are occasionally menaced by a popular fever of stock market trading. Remedies for these evils are not easily found. Usually they correct themselves. Doubtless they can be corrected to a very large extent by the judicious exercise of the powers reposed in the Federal Reserve Board. But patent medicine legislation is more dangerous than the disease.

Senator Brookhart proposes to forbid the banks lending money for speculative purposes. He would penalize all who may violate the proposed act, by denying banks that do lend money for speculation the use of the mails and telegraph. In short, he would put them out of business.

The attempt to enforce such a law would be met by the question of what is and what is not speculation. There would be such a tangle in banking business that it would jar business more than a dozen speculative crazes.

The Senator wants the discount rate fixed by Congress. Imagine 531 members of Congress, most of whom do not know a discount rate from a barn door and who are utterly unfamiliar with the working and needs of business, deciding what shall be the discount rate and business waiting for the close of the debate and the decision. What may happen during the congressional recess, when business goes on regardless of Congress? Only a glance at the proposal is needed to damn it.

It may be possible, as Senator Glass suggests, that enlarging the powers of the Federal Reserve Board is desirable. But to control business by fiat of law and regulatory bureaus is unthinkable. There would be no "speculation" about disaster under these circumstances; it would be certain.

BOOKS FOR THE PEOPLE.

Free book service for every man, woman and child in Missouri is the ambition of the Missouri Library Commission. Organized in 1907, under an act of the Legislature, the commission gives help and advice to towns organizing public libraries and to libraries already established. It furnishes a book service through traveling libraries to rural schools and communities, and it loans books to individuals by parcel post.

Each year the requests for books increase, yet the Missouri Legislature in the last two sessions has gradually decreased the Library Commission's appropriation. Here are the comparative figures showing the widening disparity between what the commission does for the people and what the Legislature does for the commission:

Books circulated—
1907—	$800 volumes
1911—	53,000 volumes
1916—	82,200 volumes
1921—	82,115 volumes
1926—	194,335 volumes
1928—	220,000 volumes

Appropriations—
1907—	$ 5,000
1911—	6,000
1916—	7,715
1921—	13,350
1926—	11,000
1928—	10,750

So growing a child deserves a better parent.

The crew of the steamer Hadnot, which passed the I'm Alone at sea, will testify in that celebrated case. As for herself, she had not any.

DR. SCHMIDT'S DISMISSAL.

At this distance Dr. Louis E. Schmidt's dismissal from the Chicago Medical Society for violation of the medical advertising ethic looks like a harsh judgment. Dr. Schmidt is evidently a physician of high standing and is termed "a great man" by Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester. It seems the Society's ire was aroused by the Public Health Institute, a free clinic in Chicago which advertises the perils of social diseases. The Illinois Social Hygiene League, of which Dr. Schmidt is president, gives free treatment to patients of the Public Health Institute who are unable to pay for services. This indirect connection with an advertising clinic caused Dr. Schmidt's ouster.

Perhaps the issue involved is best phrased by Dr. Schmidt himself. He says:

Is it wrong for medical men to accept money for charitable organizations to which they may aid humanity? Must I stop the public health work because the Public Health Institute advertises the perils of social diseases? I cannot do it.

At bottom, of course, the medical profession fears that clinics that advertise threaten to cut deeply into its revenue. But Dr. Schmidt makes the point that if good medical care is put within the reach of the masses of people, reputable physicians will prosper at the expense of quacks.

We believe the Chicago Medical Society's action is the opening gun of a final battle between organized medicine and commercial clinics. In other words, while Dr. Schmidt's case involved charitable medical work, what the society really fears is the idea of applying to medicine the mass-marketing methods of the chain stores. There is a real basis for that fear. Recently promoters have been busy attempting to establish in St. Louis a commercial clinic specializing in social diseases and advertising its services, and it is reported they have sought the approval of the St. Louis Medical Society. Such a clinic, properly managed and staffed, could be enormously profitable, and apparently the only weapon organized medicine can use against it is professional ostracism.

Thus Dr. Schmidt's dismissal may be construed as a warning to commercial clinic promoters that organized medicine will not countenance employment by them of medical society members.

She is thrice armed whose Kaws are just.

The Internecine Tariff War

To a large extent, the tariff war is one between American capital at home and American capital abroad; Americans have invested 15 billions in such enterprises as the Indian jute industry, Argentine cattle-growing and Mexican vegetable ranches; that investment is now jeopardized by the tariff demands of the home guard.

DREW PEARSON in THE NATION.

FROM the advance hearings of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives it is possible to get a very clear idea of what Congress is expected to do. It is also possible to get a very clear idea of the opposition Congress may encounter from the Americans who have sent their money to the tune of fifteen billions into the countries which, in certain lines of production, have certain skill and certain resources and geographic conditions which we cannot equal.

Consider, for instance, the case of jute. Jute is raised in the Bengal Valley of India and this is the only place in the world where it can be raised. During its growing season jute requires an average temperature of 85 degrees Fahrenheit plus heavy precipitation. It must have the monsoon rains which swell the Ganges every year until the fields are so flooded that the plant, when harvested, can be thrown into the water to rot and become pulped to extract the fiber. And since the plant contains six times the weight of the fiber, the cost of transportation of the raw product is prohibitive and the rotting must take place in the field where it is grown. Jute, therefore, would seem to be a commodity reserved for Indian production and which should not incur the penalty of a tariff.

But despite the fact that they cannot grow jute, despite the fact that 60 per cent of the jute we purchase is used by the farmer, and despite the fact that tariff increase will cost the farmer $12,000,000 for his gunnysacks and twine, the cotton growers demand that jute pay an increased tariff of 3 cents a pound. Their object is not to cultivate jute, but to kill jute as a competitor of cotton yarns for sacking and lint twine. They estimate that if jute is excluded from the United States they would have an increased market for 1,500,000 bales of their cotton.

However, they reckon without their fellow countrymen who have invested $15,000,000 abroad, part of which has established jute mills all through the Bengal Valley. These Americans not only object strenuously to having their investment jeopardized, but point out that should India's jute industry be ruined she would have to adopt a substitute, which in all probability would be cotton.

Or consider the case of caseln. Caseln is a byproduct of skimmed milk used in the manufacture of glossy paper. It is manufactured chiefly in the Argentine, where the great open ranges of the Pampas furnish green forage all year round. This green forage gives Argentine caseln a quality which cannot be duplicated by American cows whose forage for nearly half the year is not green.

Thus Argentina appears to be particularly blessed by the climate with a peculiar aptitude for producing caseln. And since the basis of international trade is the ability of one country to specialize, it would seem logical to put caseln on the free list, thereby helping Argentina to balance her lopsided trade with the United States, which is already two to one against her. But the Ways and Means Committee does not see it

WASHINGTON, April 11.

THERE is only one woman in the United States authorized to sign the name of Herbert Hoover to public documents, and she never has met the President.

Mrs. Viola B. Fugh is her name. She enjoys this unique privilege every day to the extent of some hundreds of signatures. Yet she doubts if she could with certainty pick out the President were she to see him in a crowd.

Mrs. Fugh's official title is "President's secretary to sign land patents."

When a person takes out a homestead through the Government, he pays an initial deposit, lives on the land for three years, and if he has satisfied all Governmental requirements he is given a patent signed by the President.

There was a time when the President signed the patents himself. However, the number became so great that Andrew Jackson found himself overwhelmed with the task and turned it over to his secretary at the White House. The secretary in turn became overwhelmed, and in 1878 an appropriation was provided by Congress for the position that Mrs. Fugh now has. A woman was appointed to the position at that time, and women have filled it ever since.

MR. HARDING appointed Mrs. Fugh to the office in August, 1921, and Mr. Coolidge gave her the right to use his signature when he became President. So far as is known she will continue her duties during the Hoover administration.

She says that of all the signatures Mr. Harding's was the most difficult. "The W. in the name and the two N's gave me considerable trouble. But since she signs them all in her own handwriting, she doesn't feel that there is any real difficulty involved."

Mr. Harding has the only one of the most whose names she has signed of the man who has ever seen. The late President received a visit one day from two women who introduced themselves as the persons who had used his signature so often that they were curious to see the owner of that signature. The other woman was Mrs. Mabel P. Lewis, whom Mrs. Fugh succeeded. Mrs. Lewis now is recorder in the land patent office.

A WORD FOR GANN.

From the New York Evening Post.

PUBLIC comment shows a surprising degree of sympathy with Vice President Curtis in standing up "sturdily" for his sister in the row over her "precedence" in official Washington society. He may be sturdy; we don't know. But he seems to us one more man made rather ridiculous by a woman's ambitions. And his sister's position seems to us worse than absurd. There is nothing "sturdy" or admirable about it; because she is ignoring humbling and bringing into public ridicule a man to whom her duty runs before her brother; that is, her husband.

THE ARCTIC RESCUE. By Einar Lundborg. (Viking Press.)

A time when prizes are awarded for every conceivable sort of superlative achievement, "The Arctic Rescue" ought not to be overlooked, for it is probably the most heroic account of alleged heroism ever published.

It will be remembered that Einar Lundborg is the Swedish aviator who rescued Noble and afterwards, owing to an accident in landing, shared for two weeks the experiences of the remaining three survivors on the ice.

He is now in America, where the green grows thickest, for the purpose of cashing his fame and he will lecture widely on the Noble debacle and his part in it. In the beautifully illustrated volume here listed Lundborg tells his story. It's an absorbing book, chiefly because one is constantly trying to figure out what could have been the matter with the whole outfit up there. Viewed from any angle, it seems that the affair was muddled over with a pale cast of yellow, somehow. It is interesting to compare this book with Gen. Brainerd's story of his last, lonely party recently published, or with the diary Scott left to the world, or with the splendid saga of Amundsen's adventures—Amundsen, the grizzled old Viking who lost his life in a generous attempt to rescue one for whom he had no great regard.

ROUND UP. By Ring W. Lardner. (Scribner's.)

Thirty-five short stories, including "Haircut," "The Love Nest," "Mr. and Mrs. Fix-It," "The Golden Humbug," and several of the author's sketches for which the author is especially noted. An appreciative public instantly welcomed Lardner's humorous portrayal of the dumbbell ballplayer, and the critics of letters have maintained, seems decidedly more difficult to escape as many a popular comedian has discovered. In these stories Mr. Lardner sometimes essays a note of poignant sentiment, as in "Old Folks' Christmas," or "Some Like Them Cold," or "The Mayville Minstrel," but his happiest effects, as usual, are exhibited in the studies of characters from the sport world.

Through the medium of racy dialogue, anecdote or reprinted correspondence, the reader observes the reactions, emotional or otherwise, of ballplayers, pugilists, barbers, cabaret pianists, songwriters, traveling salesmen, and incidentally, the foibles of their women kind. All these characters are unmistakably American types, though the dramas which involve them are seldom more subtle than the conflict of personalities made familiar

CAPT. EINAR LUNDBORG.

In countless comic strips, Lardner is at his best in inventing wisecracking dialogue and his sketches are interlarded with puns, gags and smart comebacks more common to the vaudeville stage than to everyday life. People visit a vaudeville for light amusement. The same motive is inducement enough for reading "Round Up."

A ROOM WITH A VIEW. By E. M. Forster.

THREE TALES. By Gustave Flaubert.

A HERO OF OUR TIME. By M. Y. Lermontov.

Three of the first issues in the Bonnet Pocket Series have been announced by Knopf. Judging by these samples and the list of other works soon to be published, this will undoubtedly be one of the most valuable series thus far undertaken by an American publisher. It is the purpose of the editor to include only modern books of distinction, special attention being given to works that have not yet reached the larger public.

MACHINERY. By McKnight Black. (Horace Liveright.)

The author, believing that modern poetry should be concerned with machinery, has written about Corliss engines, power houses, railroad tracks, etc. Some of the lines are long and some of them are short. There are striking expressions here and there. With the proper publicity Mr. Black might go over big.

ON STRAW. By D. B. Wyndham Lewis. (McClure.)

Wyndham Lewis, best known in America as the author of a biography of Francois Villon, published recently, is one of the most famous columnists of England. The present volume is composed of wise and witty selections from his column in the London Daily Mail.

VALLEY KENNEL SHOW TO OPEN TOMORROW

Russian Wolfhounds, Great Danes, St. Bernards to Put Others in Background.

Big dogs will hold the spotlight in the seventeenth annual show of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club, which will open at the Coliseum at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Russian wolf hounds, Great Danes and St. Bernards will outnumber most popular breeds, while German police dogs, or shepherds, will be crowded into the background for the first time.

"The German shepherds are losing noticeably in popularity," said E. W. Leach, superintendent of the show. "At Toledo several weeks ago only 25 police dogs were shown as compared to more than 50 the year before. At Fort Wayne, 34 were entered in a recent show, about half the number of the previous show. While 79 are entered in the St. Louis show, this is less than the number exhibited at last year's."

600 Dogs to Compete. In all about 600 dogs of 50 breeds will compete for $2000 in prizes and other awards during the three days of the show. Twenty-four Great Danes, 20 wolf hounds, four St. Bernards have been entered. Other popular classes include chow, pug and toy dogs.

Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., president of the kennel club, and Mrs. Wallace, have entered their Irish setters and wire-haired fox terriers, some of which won ribbons last year, and S. E. Patton of Clayton has entered his "Independent Bob," prize-winning St. Bernard of the 1928 show.

To become a "champion," a dog must win 15 points in three recognized dog shows. Not more than five points may be won at one show and the total may be won under three different judges.

Schedule of Judging.

Following is the schedule of judging for the show:

Friday, 10:30 p. m., cocker spaniels, Irish water spaniels, springer spaniels, bulldogs, chow chows, Schnauzers and Pekingeses. 8 p. m., collies and beagles.

Saturday, 10:30 a. m., Chesapeake Bays, golden retrievers, greyhounds, dachshunds, fox hounds, Irish wolf hounds, Air-dale terriers, Irish terriers, Welsh terriers, and Yorkshire terriers.

8:30 p. m., fox terriers, Pomeranians and Russian wolf hounds.

Sunday, 10:30 a. m., Eskimos, Newfoundlanders, Doberman Pinschers, St. Bernards, English pointers and toy black and tan terriers.

THINKS SHOULDER BLADES MAY INDICATE LONGEVITY

Authority to examine the shoulder blades of public school children to obtain statistical data for his research work on the relation of shoulder blade formation to longevity, has been granted by the Board of Education to Dr. W. W. Graves of the St. Louis University Medical School staff.

Dr. Graves has been especially interested in the study of shoulder blades for many years and believes that shoulder blade characteristics are inherited, just as is the tendency to longevity. He thinks there may be a relation between the two and will examine about 500 children in his present studies of observations.

Dr. Graves is professor of neuro-psychiatry at St. Louis University.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 11.—A NEW YORK policeman is paid a fraction more than $24 a week for his first two years of service. He then receives a slight tilt and after five years of "pounding the pavement" is paid $2500 a year—top salary for the ordinary copper.

There are about 20 rookies ready and willing to step into every available slot. The glamour of "the finest" is irresistible among New York boys. They want to become plain clothes men and perform those daring deeds that thrilled them in detective fiction and movies.

The most exclusive branch of copdom is the mounted service. This means a spirited horse and generally an assignment in an aristocratic area. Those of a romantic trend always try to land there. Many distinguish themselves in gallantry by rescuing swooning ladies from runaway horses in parks.

The mounted cop receives no higher pay but attains a swash-buckling halo not possible in other forms of coping. The grafting copper tries to reach the motorcycle squads. He knows the speeding motorist would rather pay than go to court. But a non-grafting cop usually receives more than his salary.

On Christmas, Easter and Labor Day he receives presents—mostly money and checks—from those along his beat to whom he has been of service. It is not bribery. The biggest traffic cops receive the biggest gifts. One in the upper fifties received $6000 from various friends last Christmas.

A pier copper was given a trip to Paris with his wife by a millionaire. (And later was suspended on grafting charges.) The most prolific points for seasonal gifts are the Avenue, Times Square and the various ship docks along West Street. Wall Street has its private cops who "get the greys."

Many coppers have used the job to go higher. Four mounted men have married "society heiresses"; they met along bride paths. Two have been made rich by "tips" furnished by financial magnates. I am told an ex-fattie now steams his yacht into one of the fashionable mooring places. So cops get on.

PRESS agents frequently mimeograph an Odyssey to the $500 a-week chorus girl, and there may be one or two—but they are rare. There are, however, a number of chorines drawing from $100 to $150 weekly, and several show girls whose sole asset is extraordinary beauty are paid $500 a week. But their careers are brief. A few extra pounds and they are back at casting agencies. The big chance is in the matrimonial market. There is always an opportunity to sale one of the front row dodgers who has a bankroll, a tin car and perhaps a set of sclerotic arteries.

HAVING BERLIN receives most of the publicity breaks as the shining example of the fortune to be made in song writing. Yet the auctioning of Jerome Kern's books several weeks ago revealed the unobtrusive Mr. Kern has been the most fortunate of all. He has composed some of the best stuff of the musical comedies and on the side was a discriminating collector. His library brought close to two millions. Mr. Kern intends to invest the proceeds in high-class securities and see a little of the world.

ONE of the exciting bits of acting of the year was a marvelous and realistic portrayal of a drunken scene in a cafe by a young actress. To those who knew it was interesting because until several years ago it was her nightly condition. Today she is a teetotaler, cashing in on her sordid experiences.

Telephone makes Bond Bread converts

W. F. MEYER

E. J. MEYER

Under the name of C. W. Meyer, their father, who established the business 40 years ago at this same location, the Meyer Brothers continue at Cherokee Street and California Avenue to serve their customers with quality merchandise. Telephone PROSPECT 9573-9575.

The telephone is one of the reasons why our Bond Bread sales have been growing so fast.

The number of people who order by telephone has increased tremendously, and in our store we were far-sighted enough to make capital out of this.

When a housewife telephones and says she wants a certain brand of peaches, or tomatoes, or salt, or bread—believe me, she gets that brand, and never any other.

And when the housewife doesn't mention a particular brand, we send her the very best we have in the store. She may never have used it before, but she can not say that we sent her something that wasn't good enough.

As a general rule in our place we fill all bread orders with Bond Bread unless some other brand is named.

That's been our rule for a long time, and we have yet to receive our first complaint. Not all housewives buy Bond Bread, but we've noticed that those who happen to get it once, usually order it by name from then on.

HOW MUSSOLINI WILL RULE LABOR AND INDUSTRIES

Every Worker, Save Domestic, Must Enroll in One of State Syndicates Controlled by Premier K

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Publishing Co., Inc., New York World and Post-Dispatch.

ROME, April 11.—The Fascist plan for bringing every phase of the Italian people's activities under State control is about to be put into effect. Every man and woman in the country who does any sort of work whatever, except domestic service, will have to enroll in one of the many corporations or syndicates which compose the corporate state.

Application of the plan has been assured by the Fascist Grand Council's approval of its revision by Under Secretary of the Ministry of Corporations Bottai. It now remains only to put the enormous State machine into action.

When this is done Italy's economic, industrial and artistic life will be directed solely by the various Fascist corporations, which will make all regulations and settle disputes between employers and employed.

Plan Started in 1926.

The scheme for centralized control of the country's life was first formulated three years ago. Bottai has since made several modifications in its structure and in the statutes of the corporations. In its present form the plan has now been approved in its entirety. The revised plan is hailed by the press here with universal praise.

Employers and employees throughout the land are all to be grouped into corporations and syndicates, according to the work done. Industry, commerce, trades, farming and the arts and crafts are all listed as units of the corporation state. Laws, charters and contracts have been drawn for regulating the relations between employers and employees in each of these groups. Domestic workers alone are not included in any of these corporations.

In the National Council of Corporations is vested the executive power and the power to formulate and propose special laws regulating labor and production.

Mussolini Is Supreme Head. All labor contracts must be made through regional syndicates. All employers must seek workers through regional labor exchanges, where good Fascists alone may register.

Premier Mussolini, as head of the Government and Minister of Corporations, is the supreme head of the corporate state.

Labor courts will decide all disputes between employers and employees in the first and second instances; but final appeal will be to Mussolini himself. Lockouts and strikes are illegal and punishable with fines, and, in certain instances, with imprisonment.

The corporate system also aims at eventual collaboration between capital and labor.

Employers Not Favored.

It would be a mistake to suppose that, so far, the corporate state has shown undue favor to employers. As Mussolini said in a recent speech, deflation has brought a drop in exports and consequent cuts in wages. But employers have often been prevented from exploiting the situation to their own advantage.

Many a captain of industry has found that a personal appeal to Rome failed to win him Mussolini's sympathy. Often his sole reward has been a sharp reminder that he, too, must bear the burden in the difficult days following deflation and stabilization.

The application of this Fascist idea to the economic life of Italy will be watched with interest by other nations where unions and syndicates are led from below. In Fascist Italy they are to be commanded from above.

by the voters, but he recognizes that its adoption in a general election is doubtful.

He favors passage of a statutory budget plan which would be effective if the Wammack plan failed.

But much doubt exists as to the extent to which the Governor will go in conveying his ideas to the Legislature. He is insistent that he desires a strong budget bill, but he has remained inactive, holding to the position that the Legislature is a separate branch of the State Government from the executive and that it is not his right to attempt to influence the Legislature. Unquestionably the House would follow the Governor if he would strike out boldly for a definite plan, but if he does not do so, and the time is getting short for such action—the defeat of the statutory bill is imminent.

In the House the fight will be for the Wammack resolution, the Republican leaders arguing that it will mean the most effective system of budget control, and that budget and economy in government with its passage the party will meet its platform pledge on a conference of the Democratic

"Fresh yeast stimulates intestinal action," says England's Great Surgeon

SIR W. ARBUTHNOT LANE, Bart., C. B.

Four years ago Sir W. Arbuthnot Lane founded the now famous New Health Society, which is teaching millions how to lead healthier lives. He is a Baronet, Companion of the Bath and Chevalier of the Legion of Honor; Fellow, Royal College of Surgeons; President, Fellowship of Medicine; Consulting Surgeon Guy's Hospital and Hospital for Sick Children. He is the creator of modern methods of surgery copied throughout the world.

"Constipation is the curse of civilization, the disease of diseases. A shortage of Vitamin B is responsible for and aggravates this complaint.

"Yeast is particularly rich in Vitamin B. It stimulates intestinal action and has a most important effect on constipation and its related digestive troubles and diseases. The diet of our community suffers from a shortage of Vitamin B, which deficiency is most readily made up by fresh yeast."

W. Arbuthnot Lane

Throat, stomach, intestines form one continuous tube. Here 90% of all begin, as poisons from a clogged colon quickly spread and attack your weakest spot. But here yeast works, keeping your digestive and intestinal tract clean, active, healthy. Start eating Fleischmann's Yeast today! For full benefit you must eat it regularly and over a sufficient period of time.

WHEN Sir William Arbuthnot Lane speaks the world listens!

Long famous as a brilliant surgeon, Sir Arbuthnot is today recognized as one of the greatest exponents of preventive medicine, health education and dietetic reform that England has ever known. He has devoted his life to the study of the intestinal tract.

In a recent interview Sir Arbuthnot made the characteristically forceful statement that constipation is "civilization's curse." In his opinion constipation can be overcome through the important corrective food—fresh yeast.

In this he reflects the view of enlightened medical opinion everywhere. In a recent survey covering every state in the United States, half the doctors reporting said they prescribed fresh yeast for constipation and the indigestion, skin disorders and other ills to which it leads.

Unlike dangerous cathartic drugs, which "scour out" only the lower intestine, fresh yeast keeps the entire digestive and intestinal tract naturally clean, active—healthy.

Fleischmann's Yeast is fresh—not dried or "killed." In every cake are millions of living, active yeast plants. As these pass through your intestines daily they combat poisons, purify the whole system. When constipation goes, digestion has a clear track ahead! Appetite picks up. Your skin clears. Your whole being awakens to new vigor and alertness!

TULSA, Ok., April 11.—It was cold and raw and a stiff breeze blew across the field this afternoon when the Browns and Tulsa Oilers met in the second game of their two-day exhibition series here.

George Blaeholder, once an idol of Tulsa fans when he pitched Tulsa to 20-odd victories in a season, was on the mound for the American Leaguers.

Jim Wright, big righthander who belongs to the Browns, opposed Blaeholder.

Wright failed to shine and after walking four batters in the opening inning, was replaced by Stiles.

FIRST INNING—BROWNS—Blue's infield fly went for a single. O'Rourke rolled to Fuller. Blue stopping at second. Manush walked. So did Jenkins, filling the bases. Kress walked, forcing in Blue. McGowan walked, forcing in Manush. Stiles went in to pitch for Tulsa. Mellilo popped to Burns. Schang doubled to left center, scoring Jenkins. Kress and McGowan. Blaeholder tapped to Stiles. FIVE RUNS.

TULSA—Kress threw out Kelly. Storti looked at a third strike. Euler single to center. Munson singled to center. Euler stopping at second. Gullie forced Munson. Kress to Mellilo.

SECOND—BROWNS—Blue rolled to Storti. O'Rourke singled to left. Manush forced O'Rourke. Burns to Silva. Jenkins singled to center but was out trying to stretch it into a double. Gullie to Storti.

TULSA—Burns rolled to Mellilo. Smith singled to right. Silva flied to Jenkins. Smith holding first. Stiles doubled to right, but was caught off second. Jenkins to Kress.

THIRD—BROWNS—Kress singled to left. McGowan hit into a double play. Storti to Silva to Burns. Mellilo walked. Schang popped a single to center. Mellilo stopping at third. Blaeholder hit a home run over the right field fence.

FOURTH—BROWNS—Silva threw out O'Rourke. Manush rolled to Storti. Jenkins hit a home run over the center field fence, his second in two days. Kress lined to Silva. ONE RUN.

Field No. 2 at Jones Park—Slacks vs. Westcotts.

OTTO STEIN DEFEATS LAMBERT IN MATCH

Rolling 123 in his final game to 192 for Wooster Lambert, Otto Stein Jr., newly crowned A. B. C. all-events champion, won their 23rd game match, 5873 to 5846.

The final five frames of the contest were rolled at the Washington this afternoon, having been postponed due to the fact that Stein split his thumb after the first five frames had been rolled.

Starting this afternoon, the bowlers were exactly even for 274 games. Lambert went into the twenty-eighth game with a lead of 14 pins, but at the point where Stein asked for the postponement, that is, at the end of the fifth frame, Stein had 53 in the fourth, with a spare up in the fifth and Lambert had 75 in the fourth and a spare up in the fifth.

It was the eighth individual match which Stein has rolled this season. He has won them all.

Martin Eliminates Barnes In Indoor Net Tilt Requiring 58 Games; Boehmer Victor

By Davison Obeare

Gustave "Junior" Boehmer turned in the biggest upset in the St. Louis District indoor tennis tournament by defeating Herbert Weinstein in a three round match in the men's singles at the Washington University Field House last night. Weinstein was seeded No. 4, while Boehmer was not placed in the draw.

The battle was decided in straight sets, Boehmer winning, 6-1, 3-1, 7-1. Weinstein was slow to start in the opening set, while Boehmer played steadily. In the second, Weinstein began to improve and forced Boehmer to travel at top speed throughout. Both players alternated in winning service, until the sixteenth game, when Boehmer broke through his opponent's service to win the set and the match.

Robert Norton had a narrow escape in his match with Herbert Steinleider. The Washington U. player took the first set and was leading 7 to 6, in the second set, when Norton rallied and won the next three games to take the set. By better placements Norton took the third set and the match.

William Martin Jr. Triple A and former Yale University player, furnished a surprise by defeating Charles Barnes in the longest indoor match ever played in St. Louis. A total of 58 games were played. Martin winning, 8-6, 10-12, 12-10.

The players went on the court at 9:25 and completed the match at 12:31 this morning.

The Tournament Committee announced that the semifinals in all three events will be played tomorrow night, starting at 7:30 o'clock. Tickets for the quarterfinals tonight and the remaining matches tomorrow and Saturday may be purchased at 521 Locust or 421 Security Building.

SUN IS NEEDED TO PUT BROWNS' PARK IN SHAPE

By J. Roy Stockton.

Sportsman's Park is being prepared for the opening of the baseball season Saturday when the Browns and Cardinals meet in the first contest of a two-game spring series. But Bill Stockton, groundskeeper, needs help that he can't get from the men who are washing and painting the seats and patching concrete. Sunshine is needed to dry and unify the skies clear soon and stay clear, the playing area will be rather ragged and soggy when the athletes take the field.

Had the warm weather of last week continued, the field would have recovered quickly from the kicks and cuffs of the divot-digging soccer players who performed there through the winter. But the cold spell has stopped the growth of the new grass and at present the outfield territory is a sad thing.

Work on the new press box which is to be suspended from girders which support the roof above the site of the scrub's old coop, was not started until Monday and it is difficult for one not conversant with the ways of iron workers to see how the job can be completed before Saturday. Not that it makes any difference whether the series have a new box or not, but the moving of their quarters makes it necessary to transfer the telegraph equipment and if that is not in place by Saturday the palpitating public, or that part which chooses to palpitate at home rather than lay their cash on the counter, may have their newspaper accounts delayed.

Phil Ball, owner of the Browns, visited the park yesterday morning. He stopped his car across the street from the Spring avenue entrance and honked his horn to attract the attention of the men who were too busy to go in and see the plant but would be on hand Saturday for the spring series. After 10 minutes he departed to attend to other plants, airplane factories and other routine, as to the question of where the radio broadcasters would be put and whether the old moss covered water bottle would be preserved in the new press box were left unanswered. It also had been planned to ask Ball how he wanted the new press box cable brought into the park and which side of the lumber would be the top side in the press box.

Four Brownies Work Out.

Meantime workmen were searching the store rooms for old chairs to use in the new press box and four members of the Brownies were doing road work under the stands to stay in condition pending the arrival of the rest of the St. Louis American Leagueers.

George Stanton, Otis Brannon, Sam Gray and Rip Collins are the players here. Collins is recovering from a sprained ankle. Brannon is convalescing after an operation on his knee. Gray came to St. Louis when he learned of an automobile accident in which his wife and child figured. Neither was injured, but Gray remained here to work out.

In the Cardinals' office everything was quiet, except for the noise made by the workmen who are finishing up the addition to the National League's office. Bill DeWitt was straightening up the various lockers in which the Cardinals are interested. Miss Vivian Fallon was writing out and mailing cards to members of the Knot Hole Gang and Phil Powers, handy man, was asking DeWitt whether he was "in" every time a visitor asked to see William.

"They want passes, I'm out," DeWitt said most of the time.

RYDER CUP ACES WILL ENGAGE IN PRACTICE ABROAD

Three American Caddies Hope to Aid U. S. Players

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 11.—Three American caddies are counting on helping to bring the British open championship back to the United States this year.

Pat Geddes of New York, Leo Bonner of New London, Conn., and Jack Duffy of Providence were at the pier when the Ryder Cup team sailed yesterday.

They have hopes of carrying the clubs of Johnny Farrell, Leo Diegel and Walter Hagen, respectively, at Muirfield. They expect to go to England next week.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 11.—After days of preparation and farewell feasts in New York, the American Ryder Cup golf team finally has left the glare of flashlights behind and is on its way to England for what its members predict will be a hard battle to retain the international professional trophy.

Plenty of confidence was in evidence as the 19 homebored pro boarded the Mauretania, but none was expecting an easy victory. Captain Walter Hagen reported that his players were feeling "fit and fine," and had high hopes of success in the various events which follow the Ryder Cup matches.

The team consists of Hagen, Johnny Farrell, Leo Diegel, Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Al Watrous, Al Espinosa, Ed Dudley, Joe Turnesa and Joe Goldom.

A careful program of preparation has been laid out by Captain Hagen before and after the team reaches Plymouth Monday. Most of the time before they get to England will be spent in the quiet of the strain of the faraway and in enjoying freedom from photographers. After a luncheon given by their British rivals at Plymouth, the players will go at once to Leeds to make the most of the 19 days they have before the matches.

April 25 and 27, Hagen plans to vary the program by visits to several other courses, including Deal, Sandwich, Walton Heath and Mid-Surrey, and at the same time to give his men a taste of some of the golfing conditions to be found in England.

Following the Ryder Cup matches at Leeds, the members of the team will take part in the British open championship, the Yorkshire Evening News tournament, the French open and a team match against France. Hagen also is planning several individual matches after the team invasion is over.

Several other golfers, both men and women, sailed with the Ryder Cup players. Marion Turpie, New Orleans girl who has played some fine golf this winter, and Marion Hollins, former women's champion of the United States, sailed to try for the British women's title. Mas Behr, Los Angeles, went in quest of the British amateur championship as well as the open title. John G. Anderson, former French amateur champion, is entered in the open.

George von Elm, who was expected to accompany the team when he went over for the amateur event, postponed his start, as did Tommy Armour and Bill Melnikoff, professional stars who expect to break the Ryder Cup players' monopoly in the open scoring.

Miss Glenna Collett and Miss Bernice Wall are to leave next week in quest of the British women's title. Jim Barnes and MacDonald Smith already are in Great Britain.

Fownes, Wilson, Finley and Voigt In Semifinals

By the Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 11.—John W. Dawson of Chicago, medalist, was eliminated three and two today by William C. Fownes Jr. of Pittsburg. In the quarter final match of the twenty-ninth annual men's north and south amateur golf tournament here, Dawson, who was runner-up last year had been regarded as a sure finalist this year.

Philip Finlay, Belmont, Mass., defeated John D. Chapman, Greenwich, Conn., 3 and 2. Chapman yesterday downed Eddie Held of New York, but was off the form today that he had against Held.

Richard Wilson, Southern Pines, N. C., Georgetown University star, won a 5 and 4 victory over R. P. Merritt of Waterbury, Conn.

George Voigt, defending champion, overcame C. H. Eaton, Boston, a Harvard freshman, when he trailed a 7 and 4 victory.

Wilson will meet Fownes in the semifinals tomorrow and Finlay will meet Voigt.

Bud Taylor Loses

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 11.—Young Montreal, veteran Providence featherweight, scored a decisive 10-round bout here last night. Montreal outsmarted and outboxed Taylor, scoring effectively with a left jab.

Game at Springfield Off Due to Rain; Cards Start Home

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 11.—The business of the final packing up and a rush for an early train home occupied the Cardinals here this afternoon, when the final exhibition game of the spring was called off because of rain and wet grounds.

Cancellation of the contest with the Springfield Three-Eye League team pleased the players, as the cold weather encountered in the closing days of the trek home from the South has caused some fear of sore arms and colds.

Of 27 games played this spring, the Cardinals won 17 and lost 10. Not until this week was the team forced into idleness. Games scheduled for Monday and Tuesday at Evansville, Ind., were called off because of rain and the team has had only one day of work since Sunday.

Delker Shows Rickey.

Vice President Branch Rickey, the man who is generally credited with arranging the personnel of the various clubs in the Cardinal organization, is pondering over the sights he traveled 157 miles to see yesterday. Rickey had been at Danville, Ill., where six Cardinal "farm" clubs are training, but hastened to Ft. Wayne yesterday to get a glimpse of infielder Eddie Delker in action.

Rickey smiled as Eddie shot a double, then broke into a first time at bat and then broke into a riot when the kid slammed the ball to center for a triple in the ninth inning. He intimated that young Delker might make the going rather tough for some of the other infielding aspirants now on the roster.

Syl Johnson turned in another sterling pitching performance, giving but one hit in six innings. After the Cards scored four runs in the second, the Chiefs got one back in their half on Miller's homer and tied the score as Redder rifled one over the fence the next inning with two mates on the sacks. Those hits came off Lingrel and it appeared as though the bombardment was to continue when Catcher Nadelson rapped out a homer off Johnson.

However, after this wallop had cleared the left field wall, not another member of the home club garnered anything resembling a safety.

Five Hits, Four Runs.

The Cards got their four runs in the second inning on five consecutive hits off Pinkie. They slashed into the Ryba's offerings for nine safeties and seven runs during the five innings the ex-Cardinal batting practice pitcher worked.

Ryba fanned five Cardinals and walked four while Johnson sent six down via the street out.

The game was played under the most trying conditions. The diamond was wet and the mud was cut up from the players' spikes. The temperature was 39 degrees lower than it has been at any time since the team began its barnstorming trip.

Haley made a freak catch of Nadelson's single in the third inning. The ball struck the left field wall and, bounding off, hit the Cardinal left fielder on the head. The sphere then took a hop into the air and dropped into "Chicks" glove.

Wattie Holm was a target for Fort Wayne throws in the eighth. He stole second and was hit on the right hand with the catcher's throw. Ryba, trying to pick him off, hit Holm on the side, the Cardinal outfielder was then hit on the leg by the catcher's throw as he stole third.

GROGAN AND WALLACE BOTH AFTER KNOCKOUT IN BOUT TONIGHT

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., April 11.—Bent on repairing their standings in the lightweight division, Tommy Grogan, Omaha slugger, and Billy Wallace of Cleveland, will enter the ring at Olympia Arena tonight with mutual hopes that their 10-round clash will end in a knockout.

Grogan's stock slumped when he lost two fights to Ray Miller, Chicago left hooker, here, while Wallace is pounding a comeback trail that has promised to re-establish him among those in line for a chance at Sammy Mandell's title.

Wallace's most recent step forward was a knockout victory over Joey Medill of Chicago, at Cleveland, two weeks ago.

Medill will have a chance at least partially to vindicate himself in another 10-rounder with Louis Kid Kaplan, former featherweight champion.

M'MANUS ILL, MAY MISS FIRST GAMES OF YEAR

By James M. Gould.

Led by their new manager, "Bucky" Harris, the Detroit Tigers were here for six hours today on their way to their home town where, tomorrow, they begin a series with the Toronto Internationals. One of the developments of their stay was the possibility that Marty McManus, former champion, may be unable to start the season at third base.

In a recent game with the Chicago Cubs at Beaumont, Tex., McManus was splined by Hack Wilson, the Cub outfielder. To prevent infection, a serum was injected into Marty's arm with the result that what is thought to have been an overdone spread through the player's system, causing swelling in various parts of the body, including the head. In fact, McManus is unable to wear a hat. The Tigers were scheduled to leave at 10 o'clock this afternoon and McManus will be unable to go with them, being still under a doctor's care.

Likes Tigers' Chances.

In McManus' opinion, the Tigers have a real chance for the flag in the American League. He speaks highly of Dale Alexander, the first baseman obtained from Tampa, and says the recruit has won the first base job from Heilmann with the several-times batting champion going back to Hack Wilson, who kept Roy Johnson or his Fothergill and Harry Rice company for the season. McManus himself says he will be able to start the season next Tuesday and that the infield will consist of himself at third, Gehring at second, Alexander at first and Richardson at short.

Asked which of the teams the Tigers met in exhibition appeared best to him, McManus said the Pirates looked better than the Cubs, even though the Chicago pennant-pretenders won eight of the 10 games played with the Detroiters.

The former Brownie also spoke well of two young pitchers—Pep and Prudhomme.

Playing the Pirates, McManus said that he had been amazed by the apparent sure come-back of pitcher Lee Meadows. Meadows worked a few innings against the Tigers and McManus says, pitched remarkably well.

Belanger Beats Mays

MONTREAL, April 11.—Charlie Belanger of Winnipeg, light-heavyweight champion of Canada, was awarded the decision over Harold Mays. Bayonne (N. J.) heavyweight, in the 10-round feature bout of a boxing card here last night.

Sonnenberg's victory over McLeod last night was the second within less than 20 days for the champion over McLeod. On March 28, in Milwaukee, Gus "successfully defended his title" against the Omaha wrestler.

LAKE PLACID IS AWARDED WINTER GAMES OF 1932 OLYMPIC CARNIVAL

INTERNATIONAL BODY'S RULING BRINGS PROTEST FROM CALIFORNIA

By the Associated Press.
LAUSANNE, April 11.—Although Los Angeles will be the scene of most of the Olympic sports in 1932, the winter games will be held at Lake Placid, N. Y., the International Olympic Committee decided yesterday. The California city claimed the right to hold the winter sports, offering facilities in the mountains nearby, but the committee decided the Adirondack resort was in a better condition to conduct the games.

Several other American resorts and one Canadian city, Montreal, also were candidates. Montreal was not considered because the United States had priority in the choice of a location.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—Describing the action of the International Olympic Games Committee in awarding the winter sports of the 1932 Olympic Games to Lake Placid, N. Y., as an "outrage," William F. Humphrey, president of the California Olympic Games Committee, announced that protest would be made immediately.

Humphrey, who is also president of the San Francisco Olympic Club, declared that if a protest brings no response, he favored holding winter games in this State in opposition.

"It is an outrage," Mr. Humphrey said, "California should have these winter sports as well as other sports. (Los Angeles has been awarded the 1932 games) and if a protest is not ample, I would advise that we select some place in Northern California and hold winter sports in opposition."

"New York got into this fight, claiming that California has not the facilities to conduct the winter games. That is untrue, for both Yosemite and Lake Tahoe promised to spend from $50,000 to $100,000 to properly equip for all competitive sports and for handling the spectators."

The Carondelet baseball team is in need of a few players not over 17 years old to complete its squad. For particulars apply at 220 East Davis street, after 7:30 p. m.

KAISER TO MEET RIVERS IN BOUT HERE MONDAY

Efforts to sign Tony Canzoneri or Eddie Anderson for a bout having failed, Matchmaker Jack Tippett announced last night that he had signed Joey Rivers of Kansas City and "Peewee" Kaiser of St. Louis for the principal bout of 10 rounds on Monday night's program at the Coliseum.

Early this winter the pair met here in an event billed as a State championship bout, and one of the largest fight crowds in the history of the Coliseum turned out to see Kaiser and Rivers fight an even battle.

Each boxer has since been defeated in local bouts. Rivers was knocked cold by Benny Bass in the second round in their bout, Jan. 18, while Kaiser was given a sound beating by Davey Abad on the last card at the Coliseum. In defense of Rivers and Kaiser, it may be said that Abad and Bass are two of the outstanding contenders in the featherweight division.

A supporting 10-round feature of next Monday night's card will bring Denver Kid, Kansas City bantamweight, against Irish Mickey Gill.

Herbert "Baby" Stribling, a brother of W. L. "Young" Stribling, the Georgia heavyweight, may be signed to battle Eddie Goldberg of this city, in a welter-weight feature.

4 HIGH SCHOOL TRACK TEAMS IN MEET SATURDAY

By Henry L. Freund.

The first quadrangular track event of the year is scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Taylor Field when University City High, Clayton High, Country Day School and Principia will engage in a meet. University City will be the only school with competition in a previous meet.

Coach Schenck's University City squad will be the favorite, based on the showing made against Kirkwood last Saturday. In the Kirkwood meet, University City gained an overwhelming victory. Clayton had a crack junior team last year and has a number of veterans returning this season. Israel, Kern, Kram and Flaven will form the nucleus of the squad. Country Day has several experienced letter men and will be formidable.

The preliminaries of the meet will be run off this afternoon, with the finals to start Saturday at 1:45 p. m.

There will be no admission charge.

Basket Players Honored.
 The first basketball banquet in the history of the school was tendered 20 members of the University City squad last Monday night at the Coronado Hotel. Mike Walker, director of freshman athletics at Washington University, was the chief speaker. University City had a successful season, numbering among its victims, Soldan High, Roosevelt High and Webster, runner-up in the district tournament.

The Maplewood basketball squad also was given a banquet last week. Al Bruno and "Fat" Childers, members of Maplewood's star battery of last year, declared ineligible because of the nine semester ruling have been giving valuable aid to Coach Walbrink. Each has come out daily for practice and has devoted his time to coaching the new players.

Nine letters were awarded by "Stub" Muhl of University City to his varsity basketball players. The boys to gain the award were: Decker, Hukreide, Davis, Vaughan, Rickett, McMurray, Schoenthaler, Stroup and "Red" Barbieri. Barbieri played the first semester on the basketball team and then graduated from school. A prospect "Red" is making a bid for the shortstop berth with Louisville. "Cotton" Hukreide was elected honorary captain for the year.

St. Louis U. High Has Good Squad Of Track Stars

By Robert W. Herr.

With the postponement of the two track meets scheduled early this week between Prep League and County League schools, a comparison of the respective strength of the two circuits will be impossible until next week. St. Louis U. High's meet with Maplewood will be held at the latter's field Monday, and McBride is down to oppose Clayton at Sherman Park Tuesday. There is a possibility that St. Louis will meet Kirkwood High, also of the County League, on the Junior Billiken's field.

The St. Louis U. High coaches, Pinnegan and Klemm, have a strong and experienced squad this season, and while they have yet to meet their first test, it is believed that the Blue and White athletes have an excellent opportunity to win the Prep League meet. In the dashes and runs the St. Louisans are particularly strong, having Lawler, football star; Tierney and Holleran competing in the 100-yard dash, and Powers and Tierney in the 220. In the 440, Powers, Tierney and Mike Cullen, basketball captain, will run with Phelan, Jones, Cleary and Padberg, cage star, expected to do well in the half mile, Hail and Crowley, both strong runners, are the mileers, and the relay team will have Curran, Tierney, Holleran and Courtney. Two men, Curran and Matthews, will handle the high and low hurdle events.

In the field events, Lawler and Stoltman, another football man, will put the shot, while Powers and Jones are to hurl the javelin. Lynch will be alone in the pole vault, but he will be assisted by Dilschneider in the high jump. In the broad jump, Holleran, Gray and Curran have been doing well in practice.

With the additional practice, the McBride team will spend the remainder of the week in hard workouts and is expected to give the powerful county aggregation stiff competition. The Colonians have had one meet to date, but made a rather weak showing, losing to Cleveland by a one-sided score. The junior division seems to be particularly weak, but the seniors have been improving steadily.

Asks Net Postponement

AMSTERDAM, April 11.—The Dutch Tennis Association has received a request from the United States Lawn Tennis Association to change the dates of the matches to be played under Davis Cup conditions by women's teams of Holland and the United States from the eleventh and twelfth of May to the twelfth and thirteenth, to allow Helen Wills to be presented at the British court on the ninth or tenth of that month.

The trouble's not, as we suppose, In how the pellet William throws But in his underpinning.

The thing that makes "Wild Bill" so wild, And get all heated up and riled, Is not his pitching motion; It's not his pitching arm or head. But all the trouble, it is said, Is in his locomotion.

CONCORDIA WILL MEET M'KENDREE NINE THIS WEEK

The Concordia Seminary baseball team will play its third game of the season Saturday afternoon when it meets McKendree College of Lebanon, Ill. The game will be played at the Concordia Field, starting at 2:30 p. m.

The Preachers opened the season last Friday afternoon, losing a well-played game to Millikin University of Decatur, Ill. In a second game with the same team the following afternoon, the locals pounded out a 3-1 victory behind the good pitching of the veteran, Tschachula.

Frederick, Concordia shortstop, was the batting star of the Millikin series. The veteran infielder accounted for five of the 12 hits made by the Seminary batters in the two games.

Manager Art Hillman will use the same men he started in the second Millikin game. The infield of "Prof." Wetzel at first base, Zant at second base, Freerking at shortstop and Gesswein at third base seems to be a fixture. Gesswein is the only member of the quartet who did not play last year.

The Concordia outfield will be made up of Fred Stein in left field,

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers.

Flush your kidneys by drinking quart of water each day, also take occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that much food forms acids which accumulate in the blood. They cause sluggish and weak kidneys, suffer with a dull misery in kidney region, sharp pains in back or sick headache, dizzy, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad have rheumatic twinges. The kidneys often get sore and irritate, causing you to seek relief three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritants, to help cleanse the kidney and flush out the body's uric acid, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water, two breakfasts for a few days, your kidneys may then act. This famous salt is made from acid of grapes and lemon juice, mixed with lithia, and has been for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; causes no pain and makes a delightful recent lithia-water drink.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaker; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, sour stomach, sores, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the kidneys often get sore and irritated, compelling you to seek relief two or three times during the night. GANGSTER, ONCE HELD IN ST. LOUIS, MURDERED

Peter Roppo Shot Dead in Detroit—Arrested in Joseph Monti Slaying.

The body of a gangster shot to death in Detroit Tuesday night has been identified as Peter Roppo, who was arrested for investigation here after Joseph Monti, a grocery salesman, had been shot and killed near his home at 7221 Lindell avenue, University City, last Oct. 18.

At that time Roppo said he was 26 years old, lived at 4570 St. Louis avenue, and had recently moved here from Detroit. Released for lack of evidence, he returned to Detroit.

Roppo was arrested in company with Joseph Lupu and Frank Cosentino, reputed feudists. The latter two were riding in an automobile near Edwardsville last April 17 when their car was riddled with machine gun bullets fired from another car. They escaped injury. More than $150 was found in their possession and Lupu had a list of business men in Springfield, Troy and Beald, Ill. They gave their occupations as grocers and olive oil salesmen.

Roppo's finger prints, taken here after Monti's murder and sent to various cities, helped Detroit police to identify his body, which had been thrown from a speeding automobile, occupied by several men, at a railroad crossing near Wyandotte, a Detroit suburb. Roppo had been shot in the back of the head. The police decided he had been "taken for a ride" by supposed friends.

Police who visited the St. Louis address today reported that Roppo was not known there. In the Italian section north of Franklin avenue, only one man could be found who recognized the police picture of Roppo, taken at the time of his arrest, last Oct. 29. The man said he had seen Roppo once in a pool room near Eighth and Wash streets.

TAREYTONS A BIG FAVORITE WITH AVIATORS: ROOSEVELT FLYING FIELD CHECK-UP SHOWS

"HOLD IT PLEASE! Don't move... steady now..." asks the news camera man who accompanied Tareyton Investigators to Roosevelt Field on this recent cigarette check-up. Investigators are shown here talking to Flyers about their cigarette preferences... and this conversation brought to light some mighty interesting facts about Tareyton popularity. Tareytons, they discovered, are the big favorite among Aviators, and the reason seems to be because they keep nerves in sound condition. Why not try them yourself?

LANDS ON ONE WHEEL! This remarkable picture was snapped at Roosevelt Field just after pilots had made a phenomenal "one-wheel" landing. "Give us a Tareyton," they demanded right after nerve-tension was over. And you can bet that they were glad to get it. Haven't you noticed that most aviators always ask for a cigarette after their nerves have been under strain?

QUESTION MARK crew gets supply of Tareytons in mid-air. These were the first cigarettes ever delivered by plane to plane. Tareytons for men whose work demands steady nerves and a cool head.

Famous Flyers Vote This Cigarette Big Favorite in Recent Nation-Wide Probe

Steady Nerves Come First Aviators Declare

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I. In a cigarette check-up completed here today, Tareytons lead in popularity by overwhelming odds. It's the big favorite among aviators, investigators found. Pilots... student flyers... ground men... mechanics... it's simply amazing the way they've turned to Tareytons. Not just a few. But scores of them. Everywhere in aviation circles... a majority vote gives Tareyton top place. Flying field refreshment stands report Tareyton sales jumping in leaps and bounds. Most of the large passenger planes are carrying Tareyton Cigarettes as regular supplies. Air Mail Flyers swear by them. And when the Question Mark made its record-breaking flight in California... Tareytons were lowered from mid-air along with the fuel and food supplies. With head-winds to fight... cross currents to struggle with... air pockets to dodge... Aviators just won't take chances with the steadiness of their nerves. They keep themselves in fit condition... clear-headed... sure-handed... always. It takes steady nerves to handle a speeding plane... nerves equal to any emergency... nerves without a trace of jumpiness. And that's the reason for this big switch to Tareytons.

Then for your health's sake... will you switch to Tareytons for 7 full days... just to discover the benefits they offer. Thousands of people have made this famous seven-day "Nerve Test" with some remarkable results. Thousands of smokers unite in one chorus... "Tareytons, for Steady Nerves." East and West, North and South... the story's always the same. Tareytons are the choice of busy, active people. People whose work requires steady nerves. So if you haven't tried Tareytons, please do. Buy a week's supply. Smoke as freely as you please... more than usual if you feel like it... but stick to Tareytons. Do this for one full week... then check up on how you feel. See if you don't notice a marked improvement in your nerves.

- 3 SUCCESS REASONS
1. "Steady nerves."
 2. Humidor package.
 3. Heavy foil.
 4. Quality Tobaccos.
 5. Sealed perforated top.
- That's why there's no dryness... no crushing.

A REAL PILOT! Miss Marie C. McVough of New York is a student flyer and has many hours in the air to her credit. She's a Tareyton smoker too.

Make a Conclusive Test:

Remember... one cigarette smoked right after another won't tell you a thing. It takes several days... a week at least... really to pass honest judgment on a cigarette. So when you decide to change brands, make your test conclusive! Stop in at the nearest tobacco store and buy a carton of Tareytons. You'll come to them sooner or later as thousands of others have. So why not test them now? Get a supply today.

CLOSED BANK'S INCOME MORE THAN PAYS LIQUIDATION COST

SIKESTON, Mo., April 11.—Rents and interest on outstanding notes have more than paid the costs to date of liquidating the People's Bank which was closed in December, according to Lacy Allard of the Bank of Sikeston, which has charge of the work.

According to Allard, the amount saved from property rents and interest up to March 1 was $150. He said that such a condition is unusual.

The Bank of Sikeston completed the sale of 180 acres of land near Newkirk, Ok., last Saturday, for nearly enough to cover the original loan.

THE WAY —OF— A WOMAN

By Marguerite M. Marshall

THE TRUE TEST

ASINGING cowboy, on a "dude ranch" in Arizona, fell in love with a Chicago heiress. And she with him.

So the two of them—Katherine Thorne and George ("Big Boy") Gillespie—eloped and were married.

The former Miss Thorne's parents were so greatly annoyed that they persuaded her to come home for two weeks and think it over.

The trial separation was to be a "love test."

Even if you haven't read in the newspapers the ending of the chapter, can't you guess it?

Wouldn't you know—wouldn't any woman with a knowledge of human nature know—

That such a trial separation could end only in the most fervent and joyful of reunions?

"For two weeks I listened to my parents' arguments," explains Katherine, the bride.

"But found that my love had increased during the separation." Of course she found it so, bless her! And perhaps she and her young husband, settling down together in a honeymoon apartment in Hollywood—

Perhaps they feel that they have passed the test of love—That they have proved beyond any doubt their deep and unchangeable devotion.

But for those who know more about marriage.

It is well, not to laugh unkindly but to smile understandingly. And to reflect that the true test of the love of Katherine and George has just begun.

The test of the love that lasts—of married love—is not separation but association.

The test is day-by-day familiarity. No woman can ever be sure that her love is the real thing until it has survived the sight of a husband whose face is lathered with shaving cream—Or—yet more disillusioning—whose face is prickly with a two days' beard.

Another test of love is the endurance of a husband's fault-finding about food.

Or, his irrational peevishness when he is slightly ill.

Of his trick of repeating his funny stories over and over.

Of his disorderliness and absent-mindedness and before-breakfast surliness.

But the endurance tests to which marriage subjects love. Are by no means all one-sided! A man cannot be sure that his devotion is authentic until it persists after he has looked upon his wife when her face is smeared with cold cream.

Or when her nose is red and weeping with a head cold no face powder can disguise.

His love also undergoes the acid test.

In the endurance of his wife's nagging because they can't have a new car.

Or her selfish sulks because he is too tired to take her to the Country Club dance.

Of her interferingness and bossiness and nervous pettishness.

Love, even the best and bravest, is an emotion felt by human—exasperatingly human—beings. And it cannot change them into angels.

Nevertheless, love can be—and sometimes is—a force stronger. Than the petty frictions which would impede and destroy it.

This is the sort of love that survives all tests.

But all that really challenge it can never be given by absent treatment.

Laundering Woolens

WHEN washing woolens there are a few rules to be observed if the laundering is to be successful.

The water should be about the temperature of the hand, which is 98 F., and all the rinsing water should be of the same temperature.

Never use soap in cake form. Make a solution, using a good grade white soap or soap flakes, and do not boil this, as it will darken the solution so it will not be fit to use on light colored woolens.

Avoid alkalis. The only ones safe to use are ammonia (just a few drops) or borax (one or two tablespoonsful).

Do not boil woolens, as this causes shrinkage.

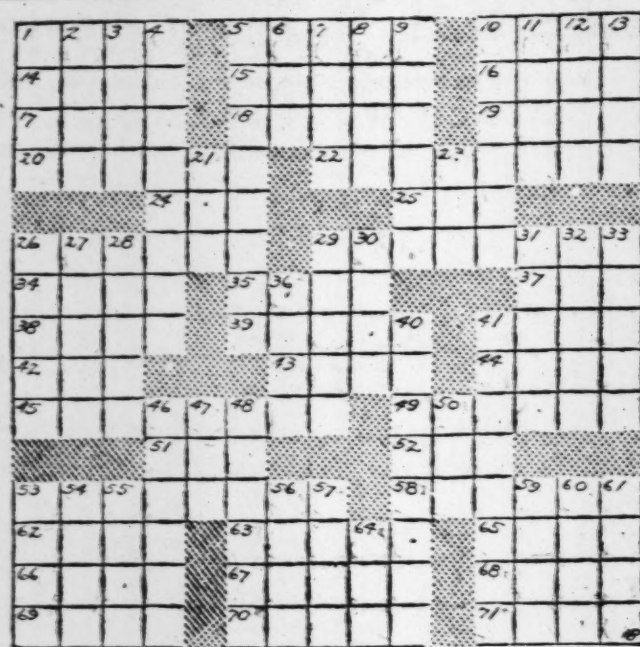

Never rub, just squeeze and press the soapsuds. It is better to use the wringer for heavy woolens than twisting the article with the hands in the wringing process.

Dry as near as possible in the same temperature in which the article was washed and avoid hanging in direct sunlight, as this is liable to turn woolens yellow.

Iron on the wrong side. Woolens should be almost dry and a piece of cheesecloth placed between the garment and the iron. If more moisture is required dampen the cheesecloth rather than the garment.

Simple Science for Everybody

THE EARS OF WHALES AND WHAT THEY MEAN

MORE interesting than the porpoises of the sea, the whales probably roamed the oceans for millions of years. But no ordinary ears could stand the pressure of the weight of tons of water, and so when these great giants took to living in the sea, their ears accommodated themselves slowly by growing a tough wall to protect the ear drums within—which of course, made the ear drum quite useless for hearing.

So our modern sea-living whales are obliged to hear through their noses where they keep an ear twisted like a conch shell. No one knows quite how this conch-shell shaped device catches sounds from the water, but they do know that the whale hears remarkably well. It is one of his blessings—for he would rather run than fight, though there is plenty of fight in his 50 or 60 foot body, when he is forced to the issue.

Authority explains this delicious food

WE RECENTLY asked the food scientist at one of the great universities to describe the rightful place of sugar in the diet.

"Sugar has five distinctive uses," he said. "1. A conservator of foods. 2. A flavoring substance. 3. A satiation factor. 4. A staple fuel. 5. An emergency fuel."

The scientist showed that sugar is used as a conservator of many foods, especially fruits. Discussing sugar as a flavorer, the scientist said: "One of the most praiseworthy developments of the modern diet lies in the expansion of the use of fresh fruits . . . contingent on the free availability of sugar."

Discussing sugar as a satiation factor, he said: "Topping off the meal with a sweet dessert gives a sense of satiation . . . an important item in the diet."

The scientist pointed out that "Sugar as a staple fuel ranks with starch . . . sugar is more rapidly digested than starch; otherwise they are entirely comparable fuels."

He then defined the use of sugar as an emergency fuel. "The process of respiration is so rapid," he said, "that sugar appears in the muscles (the fire-box of the body) within a few minutes after ingestion."

So it is that sugar is one of the most useful and least expensive of foods. As a flavorer alone, it deserves a place in every diet for making other healthful foods delicious.

Eat all kinds of healthful fresh and canned fruits and vegetables, sweetening for pleasure, remembering the satiation value of ice creams, cookies and cakes for dessert. The best cooks are generous with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

How to Guide A Little Child

By Agnes Lyne

HIS PLAY

THE child's work is his play. The idle days of childhood are as busy as any he will ever know. He has no time to waste. The rest of life will not suffice to make up for the wasted opportunities of the first six years.

The baby in his cradle is learning innumerable facts and relationships. When he plays with his fingers and his toes vital discoveries are being made. When he reaches for the curtain and cannot make it, he learns nearer and tries again until his fingers clutch it. A most important pattern of behavior is being formed.

The little one who climbs and runs and jumps may be "just playing" but he is also learning the necessary co-ordinations of his body and joy in the use of it. He is developing a sense of power.

Later he begins to imitate in play the doings of grownups. He is living his increasing knowledge of the world. He is the milk man who delivers the morning's milk, the storekeeper with groceries to sell, the truck driver with a load of stones for a near-by building. When he plays house he is reproducing his understanding of home life and family relationships.

Thus all the time he is playing, he is working and learning. He is acquiring physical skills. He is living his growing knowledge of people and things. He is finding the necessary emotional outlet for his urge to master new materials and new situations. The child who in his daily life must always feel inferior to the grownups who control him achieves in his play a much needed release for his own wish to direct and dominate.

The child's play life must not be violated. The vigor of the child's interest in his play, the intensity of his absorption in it are the measure of the kind of energy he will put into a job later on. The self confidence he acquires in his power over his play world indicates the degree of assurance he will bring to bear in attacking the problems of adult existence.

The Iron Pot Roaster.

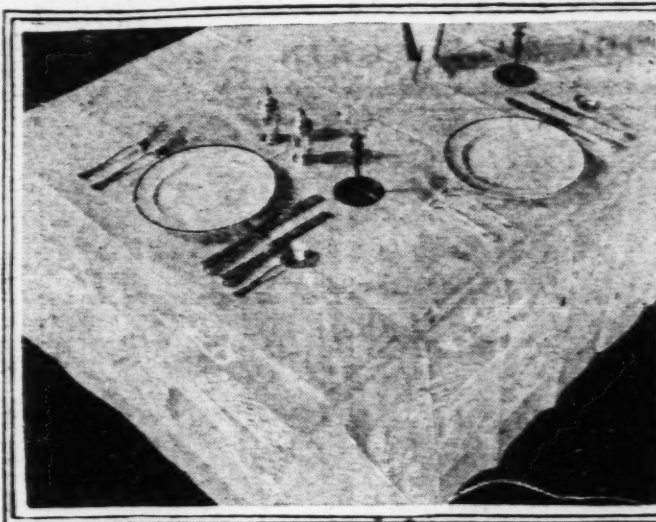

No home is thoroughly equipped without a covered iron pot, such as is used for pot roasts, stews, etc. Sometimes called a Dutch oven. For it is in this pot that the cheap or cuts of meat may be turned into delicious, savory dishes and the meat bill will be greatly lessened.

I am proud to say my iron pot is flavored itself, just as a good Meerschaum pipe is colored, and I have the feeling that the pot itself would season my meat without any extra help, if need be.

TALES THAT TABLES TELL

By Alma Zaiss

IN TIMES past, how could we have been so content with the repetition of design handed us year after year in table linens? This we ask ourselves as new designs and tints make their appearance in greater variety with each shipment.

Once there was a fern design, we remember, a wild rose pattern, a snowdrop and tulip motif; not much more. Certainly nothing so intriguing as the linen damask cloth illustrated, which is, if we are any judge, a modern classic of the first rank. (We hope the delicate detail will not be lost through photographic reproduction.)

It is quite characteristic of the modern trend, this lively interest in design shown by the newer linens—and one that is interesting to trace. For in table damasks as in draperies and tapestries, design in the enriching quality which accentuates the beauty of the weave and heightens the tone of the material.

In the old days to be a weaver of fine damasks in Ireland or Scotland was a distinction gained only after years of apprenticeship. As in the weaving of rugs, the production of linen fabrics became a delicate art steeped in tradition of the finest craftsmanship, and this tradition has been maintained in the transition from handcraft to the operation of intricate modern machinery.

Whereas the minds of the old craftsmen necessarily concentrated upon a few favorite patterns, the great mills of today may gather in the designs of countless artists, set their mechanical fingers to work to weave and produce a never-ending variety of patterns beyond the farthest dream of the

One woman tells another of this new solution to an old hygienic problem

Great relief, both physical and mental, comes with the use of this scientifically perfected sanitary protection.

ACROSS the counter, in offices, in drawing rooms, in country clubs—wherever women meet the world, they are learning new freedom, new composure and ease of mind through the discarding of makeshift sanitary protection. Kotex has changed the hygienic habits of women all over the world.

New advantages

Now come new perfections in this important adjunct to woman's comfort. Each pad deodorizes completely and safely, by a patented process to be found in no other napkin.

A certain bulkiness associated with old-fashioned methods has been overcome, too. Each pad is rounded and tapered in such a way as to leave no evidence of sanitary protection.

Superiorities retained

You may adjust layers of filler as needed—a thing all women appreciate. There is a new softness, because both filler and gauze have been specially treated. The remarkable absorbency of Cellucotton absorbent wadding is perhaps the most important feature. It is 3 times more absorbent than cotton, itself. Finally, Kotex is so easy to dispose of, eliminating all need of laundering.

Kotex is the only sanitary pad that dissolves by contact with water. (Patent No. 1,670,962.)

TELLING THE TRUTH

IAM a divorced woman engaged to be married. I have never before. I shall I inform my friends of our engagement? Should I have said to him that I was divorced? He has told his friends of the engagement. It is rather awkward for me, as we have friends for many years past few years I have been away from most of them through divorce and now I find myself at how to pick up loose ends and take on social duties and do the proper little formalities and so on. TELLING THE NEWS

I AM a divorced woman and am now engaged to be married. My fiancé has never been married. How shall I inform my friends and his friends of our engagement? Should I have cards, and if so, should I send them to his family? He has told his mother and sister of the engagement.

It is rather an awkward position for me, as we have been family friends for many years, but in the past few years I have just drifted away from most social friends through sorrow and trouble, and now I find myself at a loss as to how to pick up loose ends again, and take on social duties. I do so want to do the proper thing with as little formality and fuss as possible. His sisters are quite proper and correct and I do not want to make a mistake. Would it be proper just to invite the immediate family to dinner, and let the others be told by them?

J. S.

Here is a fine and a dual opportunity for you to again take your place in the social world from which you have more or less withdrawn. Use this announcement of your engagement as the charming means of opening the doors of your new life. Do not make the social mistake of sending formal cards announcing your engagement; this is not in good form, and is never done by people in what we call "the world of society."

When you determine that the time has come for telling the news to your friends, tell the friends whom you know intimately and see often, write to those with whom you do not have such close contact or those who live out of town or those whom you have not seen for some time. And then, if you wish, have your parents insert a formal notice of the engagement in the newspaper, or, if you have nobody to do this, insert it yourself.

A day or so after you write your notes, your fiancé writes his notes to his friends, having first, of course, told his parents and sisters and closest friends.

Don't think of this situation as of the slightest awkwardness, my dear lady, for it is just the reverse. Tell the "old news" naturally, charmingly, with the feeling that it is the open sesame of a glorious new highway on which you have set your happy feet.

CARD MESSAGES

SOME TIME ago I read in your column that when you inclose your visiting card with a gift, you draw your pen through the entire name (in case it is a Mrs.). Does that rule still hold good? Suppose one should fail to draw the pen through the name and write a note on the back of the card and then sign "Mary," would that be all right, or should the little message be written on the right side of the card with the name? What I want to know particularly is, should the name always be crossed off?

In answering this question you will settle a dispute that has been raging in my home for some time.

MARY.

If you write a message of any kind on the face of the card, you do cross out the engraved name, the point is that, when you write a message on a card, the card changes from its formality to the informality of a note. The note would not carry, as a signature, the formal name; therefore, the formal name is crossed out and the informal first name (which then becomes the appropriate signature) is written on the card, usually, under the crossed-out formal name.

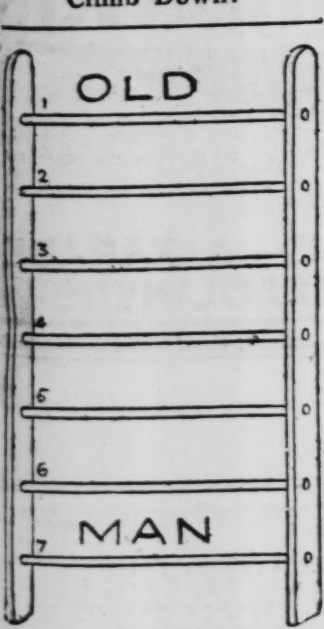

Now if the message is written on the back of the card, it would not, I suppose, be strictly necessary to cross out the name on the front of the card, but still it would seem the more consistent thing to do, since the card has become a note.

LIGHTFOOT GUARDS HIS ANTLERS

To every one it should be plain
The price of heedlessness is pain.
—Lightfoot the Deer.

PETER RABBIT continued to visit Lightfoot the Deer, for Peter was very much interested in those new antlers growing on the head of Lightfoot. It was astonishing how fast they grew. It sometimes seemed to Peter as if he could almost see them grow. It interested him to see the very great care that Lightfoot took of them.

"I don't see," said Peter, "how you manage to get around through the woods without injuring those antlers. You say they are soft and tender. You must hit them every once in a while against branches."

"Why must I?" demanded Lightfoot.

"I didn't mean just that," explained Peter. "What I mean is that you cannot get around without sometimes hitting them."

"Well, I don't see how you can," said Peter.

"That's different," replied Lightfoot. "If I were such a happy-go-lucky, heedless sort of fellow as you are, very likely I wouldn't be able to. There is nothing like knowing how. Peter, nothing like knowing how."

"I guess," replied Lightfoot, "but I had to run very fast through thick woods or bushes those antlers of yours would get hit a good many times."

"They might," replied Lightfoot, "but I don't think so. It is my business to see that they don't get hit, and I have learned my business pretty well, if I do say so. Now, if you will excuse me, I think I will go down to my favorite thicket and lie down for a while."

"Look out Buster Bear don't get you," chuckled Peter.

"He won't if you are around. I am quite sure," replied Lightfoot, whereat Peter looked pleased.

Lightfoot started off and Peter watched him go. There were some rather low branches on the trees in the direction Lightfoot had chosen. It seemed as if he certainly must hit those tender growing antlers, but he didn't. It was a sight worth seeing to watch him pass through the woods. He turned his head ever so little this way, he twisted a bit that way. He didn't pause, but kept right on, yet never once did anything more than leaves touch those antlers. Peter just sat there and admired the clever way in which Lightfoot took care of those precious antlers. Finally, Lightfoot disappeared in his favorite thicket.

COOKING CLASS

By Nancy Dorris

SUNDAY BREAKFAST.

TODAY'S column is devoted to those of you who enjoy late sleeping Sunday morning and breakfast and luncheon rolled into one after high noon. Guests may be invited to partake of a meal which is all the more appetizing for its dual character.

Since dinner is not likely to be thought of before 7, the first repast of the day may be a little more hearty than the week-day breakfast. Just as a suggestion here is a tempting breakfast menu:

Broiled lamb kidneys with bacon.
Cress and radishes.
Corn muffins.
Coney honey.
Coffee.

NOW the fruit cocktails may be served chilled or not, according to personal preference. The recipe calls for one small pineapple, one grapefruit, one tablespoon lemon juice, one cup fresh strawberries, three bananas and a sprinkling of powdered sugar. Cut the pineapple into cubes after peeling and slicing. Divide the peeled grapefruit into sections; hull the strawberries. Arrange the fruit in alternate layers in cocktail glasses and add a few cubes of bananas to each; decorate with a few whole berries. Pour over the orange juice and sprinkle lightly with sugar; place in the icebox for the fruit to make its own delicious syrup. A breakfast cocktail should be slightly tart, please!

Lamb kidneys are mysteriously good when marinated overnight in French dressing, lemon juice and oil preferred. Allow one or two kidneys for a serving and clean before placing in the shallow pan to marinate.

In the morning cut each kidney into halves—for six people, six to twelve kidneys, depending upon individual appetite. Wrap each kidney half in a strip of bacon and bake in a hot oven, or boil until the bacon is crisp. The baking requires 20 minutes and the broiling operation, 12 to 15. So choose your method!

Have toasted triangles of brown bread (two favor graham or whole wheat without raisins for this) arranged on the hot serving platter. Lay the broiled kidneys upon the toast, dot with butter, garnish with watercress and radishes, plenty of them. Serve at once.

There is not room for the corn muffin recipe, but we suggest your own or the custard cornmeal muffins printed some time ago in the column. Or you might have hot bread you make perfectly. We're for your success at any cost. And not after pot of hot coffee, with or without cream, will keep the conversational ball rolling long after the appetizer is satisfied.

THE GARDEN IN SPRINGTIME

(National Garden Bureau)

LANDSCAPE ON THE BUDGET PLAN

N O longer does a home owner make actual use of only that part of his home grounds on which he stands. The modern home embraces the entire lot and assigns to every square foot of surface a function, useful or ornamental.

The owner who neglects to develop his grounds on this principle not only limits his own enjoyment of a property which has cost him plenty, but lessens its resale value, and why should he? Complete landscaping according to a modern plan, may require more outlay than he cares to make in one year; but it is easily possible to spread the expenditure over several years on a budget system.

Of course if one can plant all at once, one gets the enjoyment of well-planted grounds the sooner. But it is much easier to plant part at a time, than to build in that way. Gardens do not depreciate with years as buildings do. With intelligent care they grow more valuable, and newer plantings quickly mature into perfect harmony with the old.

Of course no planting can be done until the grounds are graded and the walks established. And there must be a definite visualization of the ultimate effect. This means a plan, in the mind or on paper, and it is safer on paper than in the mind. You may be competent to make this plan yourself, or you may obtain help from experts who are usually available. Think out the successive steps to be taken according to the amount which can be expended each year. Mark out your shrub and flower beds and borders, and see that they have good soil or a proper depth. Then plan the location of your trees.

Trees and foundation planting may well be planted the first year. The trees need time to grow, and the foundation planting will help your house to fit into its new surroundings. The lawn should be seeded and annuals sown the first year.

Lightweight Rugs.

Light weight rugs, such as rag rugs, can be washed like any other heavy colored material, the chief precaution being to rinse thoroughly as this brings out the colors and prevents that grimy look washed rugs sometimes have. Turning the hose on the rugs will do the rinsing most effectively and with the least labor.

Carved Copper.

A new look to old metals is the latest note in jewelry that resorts to the barbaric in type. Particularly in copper is the carved effect smart and new. This has been apparent thus far in stones and beads since the inception of the carved motif cut and lately has been seen in galalith and in wood.

Even for "Fussy" Appetites

Of course, everyone who enjoys his breakfast likes Heinz Rice Flakes. But even those with "finicky" appetites like them, too! Which proves that they must be "extra special."

And they are. Imagine—fairy-like flakes of dainty crispness. Crunchy as toasted oat-meats—and better tasting. Golden-brown. Good!

Another thing. They're good for you! Not just because they're food—but because of a special health quality imparted by a new, patented, Heinz process of cereal-making. A process which transforms the natural roughage of the rice into a pure, edible cellulose giving Heinz Rice Flakes the properties of a gentle, natural laxative. Isn't that good? How to Remove Stains

For foot stains first brush the stain, then cover with a good absorbent powder as French chalk, Fuller's earth or corn meal. Work the powder over the spot until it becomes soiled, then brush it off. If the fabric is washable, sponge or wash with soap and water. If unwashable, rub gently with chloroform or gasoline.

Do not attempt to sweep soot from a carpet until it is covered with dry salt. This should be done at once, then swept off carefully.

Inferior soaps will cause stains and insufficient rinsing so the soap remains in the fiber of the fabric will do the same. In both cases the stains resemble rust spots, but usually are somewhat lighter in color. If ordinary washing with soap and water will not remove these stains bleach them in direct sunlight.

LEFT-OVER rice has many possibilities. Mixed with celery it makes tasty croquettes. It can be made into a delicious omelet, and a large variety of desserts are made of cold rice. It can be molded and served with a fruit sauce.

Try this pudding: Mix two cups of cold cooked rice with three cups of hot milk; add one-fourth cup molasses, one-fourth cup of raisins, one tablespoon of butter, or substitute, one teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon of nutmeg. Bake about an hour and during the first half hour stir the mixture twice.

Further Wear. If the silk stocking is perfect except for a darn in the heel above the shoe, put a little tuck in the stocking's heel under the foot and the darn will come below the shoe line.

Why is soda added to the water when cooking beans and other legumes? Adding soda softens the water and hastens the cooking.

DAY'S TRADE

Signs of Easing Credit Conditions, Coupled With Continuance of Favorable Trade News Influences.

CALL MONEY DOWN TO SEVEN PER CENT

Oils Prominent in Late Upward Movement—American Can Reaches New Top.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Signs of easing credit conditions, coupled with a continuance of favorable trade news, furnished the background for a broad advance in today's stock market. Despite rather heavy week-end trading and sporadic bear selling, some of the speculative prices of a long list of stocks were pushed up 1 to nearly 3 points with at least a dozen moving to new high ground for the year. Speculative orders increased when call money went down to 7 per cent in the afternoon, the cheapening considerable benefit from the new buying. The Standard Oil group and the Pan American made the best showing. Speculative orders for Real Estate, International Combustion, engineering, Allied Chemical, Hershey Chocolate were up 1 to 3 points. United Aircraft rose 2 points. Total sales were 3,408 shares.

Time Money Eases.
Call money renewed at 8 per cent and then dropped 8 as banks which have been accumulating funds in anticipation of the mid-month payments next Monday seized an opportunity to employ these funds at highly profitable rates over the week-end. Time money, which has been on a 10 per cent basis for about a week, also eased, the long maturities being offered at 8 1/2 per cent. While this is still a stiff charge on speculative commitments, Wall street seemed more interested in the trend than in the rate. The decline of $135,000,000 of brokers' loans, bringing the total down $266,000,000 below the record high established a few weeks ago, and the increase from 12.9 per cent. In the New Federal Reserve Bank ratio, from 11.5 to 12.3 per cent for the system as a whole, also helped revive bullish confidence.

Chicago Rate Unchanged.
Directors of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank meeting followed the action of the New York directors yesterday in making no change in the 5 per cent discount rate. Bulls were among the few groups which failed to participate extensively in the upturn. Recent sluggishness of these issues is attributed to the general speculative belief that the coming O'Fallon case decision, the United States Supreme Court might not definitely settle troublesome valuation and problem.

Some New Highs for Year.
Extension of gasoline prices, which brought fresh buying of the oil shares, but the early were held to a point or two. Steel common was again in forefront of the advance, touching a new high on the current rising. Radio Corporation once again sold close to par after plunging sharply when week-end cropped out in some of the radio issues earlier in the week. The close radio was 1/2 point higher at 24 1/2.

New high records for the year were established by a variety of issues, including American Burroughs Adding Machine, Gen. Co., Stromberg Carlsberg, Texas Gulf Sulphur, United Aircraft and Yellow Truck and Coach. Opening Is Strong.
The stock market today opened with an outburst of strength. Large buying orders appeared overnight, and initial gains of a point or more, were quite common. Curtiss Aeroplane opened 4 1/2, Higher, and Westinghouse Electric, Electric Auto Lite and Manville advanced two points each. Initial gains of a point or more were recorded by Ford Motors, Atlantic Refining, Montgomery-Ward, Radio, International Nickel, General American and Erie Railroad common.

Closing stock prices of other tables and markets will be found on pages 52 and 53.
